OVERVIEW

MAKING PROGRESS HAPPEN

INTRODUCTION

From providing assistance to Syrian refugees fleeing a brutal civil war, to improving nutrition in Nepal, to preventing maternal and newborn deaths worldwide, private voluntary organizations (PVOs) and the U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID) are together making better global aid and development outcomes a reality.

Over the past year, PVOs and USAID responded to an unprecedented number of simultaneous emergencies in Syria, Iraq, and the Central African Republic and the Ebola crisis in West Africa. This is in addition to responding to conflict and disasters in Bosnia, Gaza, South Sudan, Ukraine, and many other countries.

However, despite gripping headlines about conflict and crisis, the underlying trends for global development are moving in a positive direction. Great progress is being achieved at reducing extreme poverty on a global scale by improving outcomes in health, economic prosperity, the environment, governance, and gender equality.

Pooling Resources for Better Aid Results

Behind the successes of U.S. Foreign Assistance, there are many strong partnerships between USAID and the PVO community. For example, in Nepal the Suaahara Project is improving nutrition and food security for mothers and children across the country with support from health-focused PVOs. In Africa's Sahel region, USAID and its PVO partners prepared farming communities to meet the challenges of the "hunger season" and improve their resiliency to economic shocks and climate change.

The Let Girls Learn campaign raised public awareness about the need for educating girls globally, while spotlighting programs implemented by PVOs. In addition, USAID launched the U.S. Global Development Lab, with help from a diverse set of PVOs, universities, corporations, and others, to solidify the importance of innovation in tackling global challenges.

For these and other initiatives, PVOs mobilized an extraordinary amount of private funding and expertise. As shown by the FY 2012 data, registered PVOs raised $22.6 billion in private support and received $3.3 billion in USAID support. PVOs also contributed diverse expertise in health, humanitarian assistance, agriculture, and many more focus areas.

The group of 669 PVOs registered as of FY 2012, and those registered since, enables USAID to respond to vast global needs through longstanding local partnerships. These PVOs implemented or supported international programs in 186 countries and territories, nearly every nation and region in the world. Many PVOs also worked with local civil society and private-sector partners to ensure that assistance is inclusive, sustainable, and effective. (See infographic on page 6.)

Taking Stock and Moving Forward

Many in the PVO community and at USAID have been reflecting on the progress made and challenges that remain for fighting extreme poverty. As the 2015 deadline for the Millennium Development Goals approaches, USAID is focusing on next steps for crafting a revised set of Sustainable Development Goals that will strengthen the linkages between these goals.

In recent remarks at the Clinton Global Initiative, President Obama reaffirmed the U.S. Government's commitment to partnering with and protecting the rights of civil society, including PVOs and their local partners.

If you want strong, successful countries, you need strong, vibrant civil societies. When citizens are free to organize and work together across borders to make our communities healthier, our environment cleaner, and our world safer, that's when real change comes.

—President Barack Obama

Going forward, USAID seeks to deepen its partnerships with the PVO community—the world's first-responders and frontline change makers.

In 2014, PVOs and USAID responded to an unprecedented number of complex emergencies while making key gains toward global prosperity.

2014 VolAg Report

The Report of Voluntary Agencies Engaged in Overseas Relief and Development (VolAg Report) provides a snapshot of the work of the U.S. and international PVOs that are registered with USAID. PVOs register with USAID to establish and maintain eligibility to compete for grants and other types of funding mechanisms such as cooperative agreements.

The 2014 VolAg Report includes a brief description and a summary of financial activities for the 548 U.S. PVOs, 115 international PVOs, and 6 U.S. Cooperative Development Organizations (CDOs) registered with USAID as of August 1, 2014.

Select data collected during the registration process, including the information contained in this report and additional data on PVO expertise and geographic presence, is available through the online PVO Registry at pvo.usaid.gov/usaid/.

The VolAg Report is the culmination of the annual effort by the Bureau for Economic Growth, Education and Environment, Office of Local Sustainability staff to collect, validate, and disseminate a clear, factual report that helps inform the Congress, Agency staff, partner organizations, and the general public about the activities of the PVO community. We hope you find it a useful resource.

About PVO Registration

The PVO registration process and engagement activities connect USAID to new and capable nonprofit partners.

A subset of the wider NGO community, PVOs have for more than 50 years played an essential role addressing global humanitarian and development needs in partnership with USAID. PVOs are tax-exempt nonprofits that leverage their expertise and private funding to address critical challenges abroad.

What Is PVO Registration?

The PVO registration process enables USAID to identify capable nonprofit partners and ensures that registrants meet the Agency's basic partnership and funding requirements. Organizations apply and are screened based on their financial condition, governance practices, and legal standing. When an organization meets USAID's Conditions of Registration, it is added to the PVO Registry, an online database accessible at pvo.usaid.gov/usaid/.

Why Register?

Registered PVOs are eligible to compete for grants and other types of funding, and gain greater visibility with USAID staff and Missions. Registered PVOs also receive access to relevant Agency news and information about funding opportunities through Partnerships@AID, a digital newsletter. Registered PVOs are also invited to participate in interactive online events, including webcasts and town halls on current issues in development.

How to Apply

Before applying, a nonprofit organization should evaluate whether it meets USAID's Conditions of Registration for U.S.-based PVOs or International PVOs. Applicants begin the registration process by gathering required documents (e.g., audited financial statements) and obtaining a D-U-N-S number. The next step is to fill out the online application form. Once the application is submitted and complete, USAID determines whether the applicant meets the eight registration conditions. To learn more about the process and apply, visit www.usaid.gov/pvo/.

PVOs Are Making Progress Happen

PVOs are essential USAID partners that mobilize private funding and expertise toward achieving better aid and development outcomes.

(All data derived from FY 2012 PVO registration submissions except as noted with asterisk.)

MOBILIZING FUNDING

PVOs received $22.6 billion in private support, nearly 7 times the $3.3 billion from USAID.

GLOBAL REACH

PVOs implemented or supported international programs in 186 countries and territories, nearly every nation and region in the world!

INNOVATIVE SOLUTIONS

Since 2011, PVOs have received 24% of grants awarded* for the Saving Lives at Birth Grand Challenge, an open competition seeking groundbreaking solutions to prevent maternal and newborn deaths.

BUILDING PARTNERSHIPS

In 102 countries there are PVOs working with 10 or more local NGOs.

GLOBAL IMPACT

PVOs dedicated a total of $21.7 billion to international programs. Five countries accounted for nearly one-fourth of these outlays.

BROAD EXPERTISE

Health was the major focus area for the PVO community in 2012, followed by Humanitarian Assistance and Agriculture.

DOING BUSINESS WITH USAID

To implement its worldwide humanitarian and development activities, USAID uses a number of acquisition and assistance instruments, including contracts, grants, cooperative agreements, and purchase orders. USAID negotiates and initiates these instruments to obtain the commodities and technical assistance the Agency requires to achieve its objectives. Organizations seeking to work with USAID will find useful policy and business information at the following websites:

Training on How to Work with USAID – answers some of the most frequently raised questions and concerns from organizations interested in partnering with USAID.

Get an Award – provides descriptions of grant and contract processes, information on grant programs, and links to other acquisition and assistance resources, including forecasts of upcoming procurement opportunities with offices in Washington and overseas.

Non-Governmental Organization \(NGO\) Partnerships – provides an overview of the types of organizations and activities that the Office of Local Sustainability works with to mobilize the expertise, capacity, and knowledge of NGOs.

Automated Directives System \(ADS\) – details USAID's policies and procedures. (See Chapter 303 – Grants and Cooperative Agreements.)

UNITED STATES

PRIVATE VOLUNTARY ORGANIZATIONS

REGISTRY

The rules governing the registration of nongovernmental, nonprofit agencies engaged in voluntary foreign aid are promulgated in the Code of Federal Regulations, Title 22, Part 203. The U.S. PVO Registry consists of the following agencies.

Descriptions of voluntary foreign aid activities were provided by USAID-registered organizations.

FAX: (206) 528-0393
EMAIL: info@agros.org
WEB: www.agros.org

Combines the groundbreaking work of making landowners of the rural poor with holistic community development in four countries in Central America and in Mexico. Through Agros International's development model of training, community organizing, enterprise development, and land ownership, families become landowners and move from subsistence farming to producing as many as three harvests annually. Under the Agros model, every family gains housing and clean water and every child has access to primary education. Nearly all of the loans provided through the organization's women's microcredit project are repaid on time.

AIDAFRICA

Mr. Peter Keller, Executive Director

3916 Pennsylvania Avenue
La Crescenta, CA 91214
TEL: (818) 389-6778
EMAIL: info@aidafrica.net
WEB: www.aidafrica.net

Works with subsistence farmers in rural villages in northern Uganda. AidAfrica distributes efficient woodstoves that reduce fuel consumption by more than 50 percent and smoke by 80 percent, reducing blindness, lung diseases, and burns. AidAfrica digs shallow wells, creates sheltered springs, and repairs broken boreholes to provide clean water and reduce the incidence of cholera, typhoid, and intestinal diseases. In addition, the organization plants trees for food (e.g., oranges, avocados, mangoes, and jack fruit) as well as for fuel and other uses. AidAfrica's reforestation activities increase economic activity and slow climate change.

ALLIANCE FOR AFRICAN ASSISTANCE AAA

Mr. Walter Lam, President and CEO

5952 El Cajon Boulevard

Works to improve the lives of the marginalized residents of northern Kenya through economic empowerment, education, and advocacy and by training a new generation of entrepreneurial, ethical leaders. BOMA's Rural Entrepreneur Access Project (REAP) is an innovative 2-year poverty-graduation program that helps ultra-poor women in rural villages start small businesses so they can earn a sustainable income, feed their families, pay for children's school and medical care, survive drought, and accumulate savings for long-term stability. By giving women the tools they need to graduate from extreme poverty, REAP promotes resilience and climate-change adaptation across arid lands. In addition, The BOMA Project has launched a governance project in Marsabit County to build institutional and human capacity at both community and local government levels.

Partners with grassroots organizations to deliver effective development aid in a number of countries across sub-Saharan Africa. BWA's efforts focus on health care, education, orphan care, and vocational training, and the organization seeks to bring these services to Africans who would not otherwise have access to them. BWA aims for decentralized decision making, so that organizations with the greatest sense of the needs of the local population have the ability to deliver aid to meet those needs. This goal, however, is not pursued at the expense of overall accountability. BWA also seeks to improve the long-term financial viability of its service-delivery partners, with the goal of eventually phasing out BWA support.

Supports education and humanitarian aid projects that focus on children's needs in Ghana, Haiti, Kenya, Trinidad, and the United States. CAC is providing ongoing support to an educational program for orphan children in Haiti; a diaper and infant care program in Trinidad, West Indies; and a health program that provides transportation, medical, and financial support to poor children needing heart surgery in Nairobi, Kenya. The organization also provides assistance to refugees in Ghana. CAC has built relationships that will help it increase the capacity to perform surgeries. It has identified pediatric cardiac surgeons and cardiologists who will perform surgeries at no cost and expanded its network to include organizations that provide donated medical equipment, medications, and telemedicine services.

Works to limit the suffering that HIV/AIDS causes children and their families by providing care, treatment, support services, resources, referrals, prevention, and education. Since 1987, CAF has provided HIV/AIDS prevention and education resources and tangible assistance to HIV-impacted children, their families, and care providers. Financial assistance supports efforts such as vocational training and school scholarships that focus on HIV-impacted and AIDS-orphaned children. CAF also provides technical and capacity-building assistance to existing and start-up providers that serve HIV-impacted children and their families. Care, treatment, and prevention programs focusing on children and families are ongoing in Uganda and Zambia.

Provides humanitarian goods to developing or distressed areas of the world. GA has focused most of its efforts on Africa and to a lesser extent Central America and Eastern Europe. Special emphasis is placed on children at risk. Whenever possible, indigenous groups are selected to manage the distribution of humanitarian aid. GA's goal is to provide temporary assistance while people achieve self-sufficiency. GA has been able to assist in countries and regions that, for the most part, would otherwise be ignored.

Promotes quality journalism worldwide in the belief that independent, vigorous media are crucial in improving the human condition. ICFJ's work around the world—i.e., providing journalistic, media management, and technical expertise as well as information and support services—is critical to the development of effective, independent media organizations that are ethically grounded and financially stable. ICFJ also assists U.S. media organizations in providing better coverage of international issues that are too often ignored, from the global economy to immigration, and in fostering better connections among U.S. journalists and their counterparts abroad. Training for ethnic and non-

English-language reporters in the United States has become a strong focus for ICFJ, given the growing influence of these journalists. ICFJ offers fellowships, facilitates exchanges, provides a range of consulting services, and has conducted training programs for some 70,000 journalists in 180 countries.

Improves the lives of the rural poor in developing nations through agricultural and economic development. iDE's guiding principle is that the rural poor are natural entrepreneurs who, if given the opportunity, will invest their limited resources to ensure their families' food supply and generate income. iDE empowers rural farmers to pull themselves out of poverty by making available quality inputs, training, affordable technologies, capital, and access to markets. Simple, low-cost water technologies increase income generation by allowing farmers to cultivate high-value, labor-intensive crops. These technologies have enabled families to become more efficient agricultural producers, generally doubling their net annual income in the first year. iDE's efforts have helped some 17 million people escape poverty.

Alleviates human suffering by providing health services and critical assistance to victims of disaster, poverty, and neglect. IRT focuses on four core areas: disaster relief, medical training, surgical outreach, and health promotion. Volunteers perform most of the program activities. Medical relief teams augment local health care professionals during natural disasters and other crises, medical training teams train local instructors in emergency medicine and obstetrical and neonatal care, and surgical teams perform surgery for the poor in remote regions. IRT construction teams repair homes damaged by natural disasters. Rather than establish field offices, IRT works with local agencies to build effectiveness and capacity. IRT has provided assistance to 66 countries during its 25-year history.

Provides a preferential health care option for the poor. By establishing long-term relationships with sister organizations based in settings of poverty, PIH strives to achieve two overarching goals: bring the benefits of modern medical science to those most in need of them and serve as an antidote to despair. PIH draws on the resources of the world's leading medical and academic institutions and on the lived experience of the world's poorest and sickest communities. PIH's mission is both medical and moral; it is based on solidarity rather than charity alone. When the organization's patients are ill and have no access to care, PIH's team of health professionals, scholars, and activists will do whatever it takes to make them well.

Enables collaboration between local people and international experts to plan, develop, and maintain sustainable livelihoods. PIF leads the Global Campaign against Improvised Explosive Devices (IEDs), which uses an innovative approach that brings together members of the public and private sectors to reduce the use of IEDs and thwart the creation of networks that would deploy them. These public-private partnerships harness intellect, imagination, and creativity with material and non-material solutions to execute collaborative, locally led programs that create sustainable livelihoods. PIF is a nonprofit, nongovernmental organization recognized as a public charity under section 501(c)(3) of the U.S. Internal Revenue Code. The organization's activities span the spectrum of humanitarian efforts, from development to crisis response, and include successes in Afghanistan, Ghana, Grenada, Guatemala, Nepal, Nicaragua, Nigeria, Rwanda, Tibet, and the United States.

Guides, trains, and inspires individuals, organizations, and communities to constructively address conflicts relating to values and worldviews. Since its inception in 1989, Public Conversations Project has worked in 20 countries. Through trainings, workshops, dialogues, and consultations, and by providing free dialogue resources, the organization dramatically shifts communication and relationships between those with conflicting positions about contentious issues. Dialogue transforms communication and relationships in ways that make other kinds of change possible. In many conflicts, action cannot be taken without first improving mutual understanding and relationships and reducing stereotyping and demonization. Dialogue can lay the groundwork for making decisions or taking significant collaborative actions.

Works to end child slavery in Haiti in our lifetimes. "Restavek" is a form of modern-day slavery that affects one in every 15 Haitian children. Restavek children are often given to relatives or strangers to perform menial tasks for no pay. RFF's comprehensive strategy to end this practice includes meeting the long-term needs of restavek children through effective child advocacy, establishing transitional homes for children who suffer the worst forms of abuse, working with churches and pastors (i.e., culturally significant leaders) to change societal attitudes toward restavek, establishing community centers to enhance economic empowerment for children and adults, connecting government agencies with the people through partnerships with churches, and using effective mass media campaigns to provide information on justice issues and family planning. RFF seeks to undermine the social acceptance of, and economic need for, restavek.

Develops agricultural markets, thereby enabling trade and improving lives worldwide. The U.S. Grains Council is a private, nonprofit organization dedicated to building and maintaining the use of U.S. corn, barley, sorghum, and associated products in the international marketplace. Founded in 1960, the council is funded through membership contributions from farmer checkoff organizations, agribusinesses, state entities, and others. These resources trigger Federal matching funds and support from cooperating groups in other countries, producing an annual market development program valued at more than $28 million. Headquartered in Washington, D.C., the council has 10 international offices, consultants in 15 countries, and programs in more than 50 countries.

Equips leaders to mobilize communities to care for their own children with their own resources. VCI promotes community involvement and ownership, recognizing that communities that run programs are more likely to own and sustain them over time. VCI also promotes indigenous leadership and reliance on community resources. These core principles create program standards that are not likely to create dependence on Western aid. The organization serves individuals from a number of faith traditions and seeks to enlist members and leaders of various faiths as volunteers. VCI chapters initiate development programming with the outcomes they want for their orphans and vulnerable children clearly defined. The organization evaluates program success by assessing the quality of outcomes achieved rather than the quantity of services provided.

Delivers high-quality, culturally appropriate vision care for those earning under $8 a day, the base-of-the-pyramid consumer. VisionSpring trains local people to conduct outreach and to sell high-quality yet affordable reading glasses in their communities. The organization has incorporated successful elements of the vision-entrepreneur model into a hub-and-spoke approach, in which VisionSpring's optical shops operate as hubs and vision entrepreneurs act as spokes extending into surrounding communities. Tested and proven in El Salvador, this approach was adapted in 2012 for replication in India. The income generated through the sale of products with higher margins at the organization's optical shops supports resource-intensive outreach to remote communities. In addition, VisionSpring has partnered with BRAC in Bangladesh to support the Reading Glasses for Improved Livelihoods program in underserved communities.

Unites citizens to demand the right to a safe birth for every woman, everywhere. White Ribbon Alliance for Safe Motherhood harnesses the power of women and men in the communities where they live because problems need to be identified and solutions found locally to drive policy changes at the national level. In many countries, childbirth remains the biggest killer of young women, and everyday 800 women and girls die bringing life into this world. Governments across Africa and Asia have made impressive promises and headway—maternal deaths are down by a half since 1990 and maternal health is now a global issue. The alliance's goal is to make sure that the progress continues. Healthy mothers make a healthy world.

Gives impoverished women in rural East Africa the tools they need to climb out of poverty. The WMI loan program provides a structured environment where women receive business training, financial literacy mentoring, and support from a village-level community-based organization (CBO) while participating in four consecutive 6-month loan rounds at increasing borrowing limits (from $50 to $250). After 24 months, the women graduate from the CBO program to become commercial bank customers. WMI guarantees the client's first bank loan, and after a year, the client graduates to independent borrowing, financial autonomy, and the formal economy. Funds repaid to the CBO by the transitioning borrowers are recycled to provide new loans to first-time borrowers. Interest on the CBO-issued loans covers all operating expenses of the village loan hubs.

Fights against hunger and defends the fundamental rights of populations in difficulty. Born in the context of the Afghan crisis and emergency response for Afghan refugees who fled to Pakistan in 1979, ACF, a humanitarian, voluntary, and professional nongovernmental organization, was created by a group of French intellectuals. ACF's mission is to intervene in the field to save lives and preserve and restore food security for populations. Working in conjunction with the people it serves, ACF provides the material and human resources necessary to address needs, relieve human suffering, and safeguard human dignity. ACF contributes to the protection of populations by taking action and testifying.

Fights poverty worldwide. Formed in 1972, ActionAid is an international development agency that last year helped more than 13 million of the world's poorest people in more than 40 countries. ActionAid is a federation of members working with poor and excluded communities in Africa, Asia, the Americas, and Europe. In December 2003, the organization established a secretariat in Johannesburg, South Africa. ActionAid works with local partners, helping poor women and men gain their rights to food, education, human security, just and democratic governance, and health care. The organization's 350,000 supporters share its commitment, providing 70 percent of its income. ActionAid's partners range from small community groups to international networks, and its national and international campaigns highlight issues that affect poor people and influence the way that governments and international institutions work.

Provides professional assistance to rural farmers threatened by exclusion in southern countries. AVSF works to ensure that rural farming is economically viable, ecologically sustainable, and socially fair, as agriculture not only provides sustenance and livelihoods but also contributes to local democracy and to the vitality of rural areas. AVSF works through more than 80 programs in 18 countries, helping small farmers' associations protect production systems, improve productivity, manage resources, consolidate trade organizations, and bring products to local and international markets. Initiatives contribute to economic growth by providing employment in rural areas, increase health and food security, and facilitate sustainable management of natural resources. AVSF also advocates for greater justice in the international sphere and includes agriculturalists in its efforts to change policies and practices that breed poverty and injustice.

Builds healthy and sustainable communities in Africa. For more than 28 years, CPAR has been targeting some of the most vulnerable rural areas of Ethiopia, Malawi, Tanzania, and northern Uganda with important interventions related to food security, water and sanitation, and access to primary health services. CPAR's work is guided by the underlying belief that everything is connected: specifically, that health is determined not only by the existence of health care services but also by social, economic, and environmental factors. Therefore, CPAR's work not only involves direct health interventions—ensuring a continuum of care between clinic and community—but also addresses the determinants of health, which include access to clean water, adequate food, and a safe and healthy environment. All CPAR projects are designed to be sustainable, ensuring that benefits continue to accrue long after CPAR's direct involvement.

CARITAS SWITZERLAND CACH

Mr. Hugo Fasel, Director

Works for global solidarity. Established in 1985 as a secular, independent association, CESVI is guided by the principle of human solidarity and the ideal of social justice. These values underpin the organization's humanitarian and development work and affirm its commitment to universal human rights. CESVI's name is derived from the Italian "cooperazione e sviluppo" (cooperation and development), words that convey the organization's philosophy and reflect the leading role played by project beneficiaries. Main activities include the emergency supply of medical equipment and materials and the distribution of food and nonfood items. The organization rehabilitates public infrastructure—schools, hospitals, water wells, water distribution systems—and houses. CESVI's development activities include HIV/AIDS prevention, agricultural promotion, support for business, malaria and dengue fever prevention, hospital improvements, and food security.

Works to build lasting peace in partnership with people living and working in conflict or post-conflict situations. Violent conflict is a reality affecting millions of people across the globe. CORD believes these people hold the keys to peace, and the organization works alongside them to make lasting peace a reality. Conflict breaks up families and communities and disrupts and destroys lives, livelihoods, societies, and economies. CORD forms long-term partnerships that help build the ability of communities, organizations, and governments in Africa and Southeast Asia to direct their own development toward a peaceful future.

Supports projects that provide fortified foods to large populations—through market channels where feasible and through public-sector delivery systems when markets fail. GAIN is a Swiss foundation that mobilizes public-private partnerships and provides financial and technical support to deliver nutritious foods to people most at risk of malnutrition. The organization was created in 2002 at a Special Session of the U.N. General Assembly on Children. GAIN is delivering improved nutrition to an estimated 273 million people, half of whom are women and children, in more than 25 countries. GAIN's Business Alliance unites food producers and is a global focal point for private-sector strategies against undernutrition in Africa, Asia, and Latin America and the Caribbean. More nutritious food improves individual productivity and helps reduce poverty.

Assists divided and conflicted societies to build lasting peace. Interpeace, an international peace-building organization based in Switzerland, was created as a U.N.

pilot project, the War-torn Societies Project, in 1994. Interpeace became an independent nongovernmental organization (NGO) in 2000 and remains a close partner of the United Nations. The organization can implement Interpeace-style programming through the United Nations via the Joint Programme Unit for UN/Interpeace Initiatives or as an NGO. The organization's success is based on its belief in local ownership and local capacities. Interpeace works with carefully formed local teams that engage all sectors of a society to identify major challenges, develop consensus-driven solutions, and strengthen the capacity to manage conflict in nonviolent ways. Currently, Interpeace has programs in Africa, Central America, the Middle East, and Southeast Asia.

Builds the capacity of individuals, institutions, and governments throughout Africa, Asia, and the Americas. WUSC is a Canada-based nongovernmental organization (NGO) focused on improving human development through education, training, capacity building, and institution strengthening. With more than three decades of experience in international development, WUSC is recognized as one of Canada's leading NGOs in the design, implementation, and management of education, capacity-building, and development projects. WUSC is unique among Canadian development organizations because of its ability to link Canada's universities and colleges with overseas development and capacity-building activities. Reaching across Canada, WUSC's network includes more than 50 post-secondary institutions, 80 local committees (campus-based groups), and individual alumni to connect members and leaders to development initiatives.

Promotes youth innovation to drive positive change. As a leading global youth-development organization, Youth Challenge International designs programs to meet the needs of youths affected by poverty in four integrated sectors: livelihoods, health, leadership, and the environment. Building on more than 20 years of experience, Youth Challenge International engages young people in creating solutions to the challenges they face, incorporating youth development, volunteerism, partnership, and equity into all that it does.

REGISTRY

CDOs as part of the larger PVO community will be listed in the U.S. PVO Registry. In order to be listed in the Registry as a CDO, the CDO must comply with the annual documentation requirements in the Code of Federal Regulations, Title 22, Part 203. The following CDOs are included in the U.S. PVO Registry.

Descriptions of voluntary foreign aid activities were provided by USAID-registered organizations.

ACDI/VOCA

Mr. William Polidoro, President and CEO

50 F Street NW, Suite 1000
Washington, DC 20001

Fosters broad-based economic growth, raises living standards, and creates vibrant communities. ACDI/VOCA's technical and management assistance enables organizations—whether enterprises, financial institutions, or cooperatives—to manage and finance themselves and succeed in the global economy. Areas of expertise include food security, agribusiness, enterprise development, financial services, and community development. Long known for its work in the areas of agricultural development and food security, ACDI/VOCA has gained prominence for value chain approaches to enterprise development and poverty reduction, establishment of sustainable financial institutions, and participatory community strengthening, especially in conflict-affected areas. ACDI/VOCA implements approximately 90 projects in 40 countries on behalf of public, private, and multilateral funders.

CHF INTERNATIONAL dlb/a Global Communities

Mr. David A. Weiss, CEO

Stimulates long-lasting positive change in low- and moderate-income communities around the world, helping them to improve their social, economic, and environmental conditions. Using a participatory, demand-driven approach, Global Communities has worked in 115 countries since 1952, providing innovative development assistance that promotes local economic development and fosters grassroots community participation. Using businesslike approaches and democratic principles, Global Communities helps bolster the capacity of microenterprises, governments, cooperatives, and nongovernmental organizations to tackle social, environmental, and infrastructural issues on their own, while strengthening community participation and cohesion. Global Communities applies these principles effectively in many contexts, such as post-conflict emergency recovery and reconstruction, natural disaster response, mitigation of the HIV/AIDS pandemic, and focused assistance for low-income artisans.

ICMIF/AMERICAS

Mr. Edward Potter, Executive Director

8400 Westpark Drive, 2nd Floor

WEB: www.ncba.coop

Provides technical assistance and training to enhance the governance and assist in the development of cooperatives—i.e., member-owned businesses, small enterprises, and microenterprises—at the grassroots level in both urban and rural areas. NCBA CLUSA seeks to alleviate poverty through economic empowerment by pioneering practices such as conservation and nutrition-led agriculture. The association's training and development activities focus on democracy building, improving business skills, accessing financing and information, and a community-based cooperative approach to gain and protect market access, primarily for the rural poor. Recently, NCBA CLUSA has applied its approach to community-managed health and sustainable natural resource use as well as to strengthening local organizations and governments to support cooperative economic development.

NATIONAL RURAL ELECTRIC COOPERATIVE ASSOCIATION
NRECA

Ms. Jo Ann Emerson, CEO

Designs and implements efficient and financially sustainable rural electrification systems worldwide and promotes the consumer-owned electric utility model to ensure electric service is responsive to local needs. NRECA draws on conventional and nonconventional technologies, develops low-cost design adaptations, and uses renewable energy resources where appropriate. Other services NRECA provides include developing national rural electrification plans and training local electric utility employees in electric utility management, accounting, engineering, operations, and maintenance. NRECA maintains offices in 6 countries and currently has projects in 16 countries. Domestic NRECA member cooperatives generate, transmit, and distribute electricity to more than 42 million consumers in the United States.

Promotes the sustainable growth and expansion of quality credit unions for everyone worldwide. For over 40 years, World Council of Credit Unions has specialized in providing technical assistance and trade association services to members in more than 100 countries. World Council supports quality credit unions for everyone through its development projects, supporter programs, and international partnerships. World Council's proven Model Credit Union Building methodology provides steps to improve credit unions' efficiency and establish compliance with minimum financial standards that protect member savings. World Council works to create an appropriate regulatory environment for safe and sound credit union operation. As instruments of economic and social development, World Council and its member credit unions make a difference in the lives of more than 200 million people.
