I. EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

In FY 2002, U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID) awards to Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCU) totaled $19,205,081. Awards to HBCUs in FY 2002 continued to be made primarily in the Research and Development, Fellowships, Third Party Awards, and Student Financial Assistance categories.

USAID funding awarded to HBCUs in the Research and Development category totaled more than $12.1 million in FY 2002. In the Student Financial Assistance category, awards to HBCUs totaled more than $2.6 million in FY 2002. Through fellowships and funding awarded to an HBCU via the Inter-governmental Personnel Act, USAID awarded $533,000 to HBCUs. A total of $1,900,000 was awarded in third party awards for university linkage projects. Through sub-grants under an interagency agreement $1,988,081 was awarded (USDA/RSSA).

USAID's Minority Serving Institutions (MSI) unit continued to work during FY 2002 to increase the participation of HBCUs and other MSIs in USAID programs through a variety of activities. As a result of this effort, Mississippi Valley State University and Spelman College are two new partners in global development.

USAID remains committed to increasing the participation of HBCUs in its programs and activities, and hopes that the recommendations of the MSI Committee and the work of the MSI Unit will help increase awards made to HBCUs in FY 2003.

IV. AWARDS TO HBCUS AND NARRATIVE INFORMATION

A. Introduction

USAID awards to HBCUs increased nearly 69 percent, from $13,190,834 in FY 2001 to $19,205,868 in FY 2002. Of this amount, $12,171,334 was awarded for technical assistance (i.e., Research and Development) activities; $533,000 was awarded for fellowships and IPAs; $2,603,453 was awarded for participant training (i.e., Student Tuition Assistance) activities; $1,900,000 million was awarded for third party awards; and $1,988,081 was awarded for interagency transfer sub-grants (USDA/RSSA).

USAID remains committed to increasing the participation of HBCUs in its programs and activities, and will continue to identify programs and ways in which HBCUs can become partners with USAID in the international development arena.

B. Overview of USAID

The USAID is the independent federal agency that administers the U.S. Foreign Assistance Program. USAID has four regional Bureaus (Africa; Asia and the Near East; Latin America and the Caribbean; and Europe and Eurasia) and three central Bureaus (Legislative and Public Affairs; Policy and Program Coordination; and Management). USAID now has three program pillars: 1) Economic Growth, Agriculture, and Trade; 2) Global Health; and, 3) Democracy, Conflict and Humanitarian Assistance. Each operating unit has a strategic plan which includes one or more strategic objectives that must fall within the overall Agency goals (for Regional Bureaus, this includes overseas missions and USAID offices in Washington that receive program funding). All projects and activities funded by USAID operating units must support the strategic objectives articulated in their approved strategic plan.

C. Summary of USAID Involvement and Accomplishments with Historically Black Colleges and Universities in FY 2002

USAID has benefited from HBCU involvement in its programs and activities for many years. In FY 2002, HBCU participation in USAID programs and activities included:

-- Research and Development (or what USAID commonly refers to as technical assistance activities);

-- Student Tuition Assistance (which USAID commonly refers to as participant training programs) for students from USAID countries. These students attended HBCUs for long and short-term technical and academic training;

-- Fellowships, Internships, and IPAs: Fellowships are provided to HBCU graduate and undergraduate students under the Bureau for Global Health's Population Fellows Program's HBCU Initiative. Fellowships are also provided to HBCU Faculty in international population and health programs. Internships are provided to graduate students from HBCUs to work in a USAID Mission in Africa. USAID has an IPA from a HBCU who is responsible for the management of the Education for Democracy and Development Initiative (EDDI).

-- Other Activities consist of sub-grants under an inter-agency Reimbursable Services Support Agreement with the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA/RSSA).

D. Agency-Wide Activities and Initiatives

1. Minority Serving Institutions (MSI) Committee

USAID's Minority Serving Institutions Committee (MSIC) was established in 1994 to ensure compliance with the various Executive Orders concerning Minority Serving Institutions (MSI). The MSIC develops and recommends policies and activities to increase the participation of MSIs in USAID programs. The MSI Committee chairperson is Constance B. Newman, Assistant Administrator for Africa. The committee membership is comprised of senior level representatives from each of USAID's Bureaus and independent offices. The MSIC meets every 6-8 weeks.

2. Minority Serving Institutions (MSI) Unit

USAID has a MSI Unit located in the Office of Small and Disadvantaged Business Utilization, which serves as the secretariat of the MSI Committee. The MSI Unit consists of the MSI Coordinator and an Administrative Operations Specialist. The MSI Unit is responsible for data collection, information sharing, and providing advice and counsel to HBCUs and other MSIs. They also provide guidance to USAID Bureaus and missions in developing activities and initiatives to increase the participation of HBCUs and other MSIs in USAID programs.

The following HBCU-specific activities were carried out by the MSI Unit in FY 2002:

- November 2001: Participated in a panel on higher education and opportunities to study abroad for African-Americans at the National Black Caucus of State Legislators Annual Conference.
- January 2002: Participated in the WHI/HBCU International Technical Assistance Workshop at Bethune-Cookman College in Daytona Beach, FL.
- February 2002: USAID Administrator, Andrew Natsios, addressed the HBCUs Conference and presented six HBCUs with the USAID-HBCU Partnership Award. USAID hosted the reception that immediately followed.
- March 2002: Participated in the Annual NAFEO Conference.
- July 2002: Participated as a exhibitor and made a presentation at the NAFEO Presidential Peer Seminar in Palm Beach, FL.
- August 2002: Recommended the participation of Ambassador Leonard Spearman, Executive Director, WHI/HBCU, as a panelist at the BIG Africa Initiative presentation at the 24th Annual Blacks In Government National Training Conference in Atlanta, GA. Amb. Spearman stressed the importance and impact of HBCUs and African-American's assisting in the development of Africa.
- September 2002: Ms. Connie Newman, Assistant Administrator, Bureau for Africa addressed the Annual HBCUs Week Conference. Ms. Newman presented four HBCUs with the USAID-HBCU Partnership Award. Mr. Alfred Harding, MSI Coordinator, addressed the International session. Mr. Alfred Harding and Ms. Tracy Scrivner received Distinguished Service Awards from the WHI/HBCUs.
- September 2002: Participated in the United Negro College Fund Special Program Corporation (UNCFSP) International Development Partnership Proposal Writing workshop at Virginia Union University in Richmond, VA.

During FY 2002, the MSI Unit participated actively in the monthly meetings of the White House Initiative on HBCU's International Cluster. Within USAID, the MSI Chairperson met with the Assistant Administrators of the program bureaus to discuss to importance of MSI participation in USAID programs and activities, as well as ways to increase funding awarded to MSIs, including Historically Black Colleges and Universities. The MSI Unit was responsible for the development and approval of the Annual Performance Report on HBCUs which was submitted to the White House Initiative on HBCUs and OMB.

3. International Development Partnerships (IDP) Program

The United Negro College Fund Special Programs Corporation (UNCFSP) has been the entity that is responsible for administering and managing the International Development Partnerships (IDP) program through a USAID cooperative agreement since FY 1998. In FY 2002, the College Fund/UNCF awarded linkage grants valued at $200,000 each to: 1) Mississippi Valley State University (2); 2) Clark Atlanta University; 3) Fort Valley State University; 4) Mississippi Consortium for International Development; 5) Savannah State University; 6) Fisk University; and 7) Wilberforce University. During FY 2002, UNCFSP also provided technical assistance to HBCUs in developing proposals and understanding how USAID operates, in an effort to expand HBCU participation in USAID programs. Funding awarded to UNCFSP for IDP totaled $2,000,000, which included $400,000 for administrative costs (see Regional Bureau reports for detailed information on IDP awards).

E. Bureau Activities and Initiatives

1. Bureau for Economic Growth, Agriculture and Trade (EGAT)

a. Human Capacity Development (EGAT/HCD)

i. International Development Partnerships (IDP)

The UNCFSP was awarded a 5-year cooperative agreement in FY 1998 to cover administrative costs and to award four linkage grants to HBCUs each year valued at $200,000 each under the IDP program. Details concerning IDP activities are described in the Regional Bureau narratives. In FY 2002, EGAT/HCD awarded a total of $200,000 to the UNCFSP to continue their grant administration and management activities under this program.

ii. Institutional Partnerships in Higher Education for International Development

In FY 2002, the Association Liaison Office (ALO), through a cooperative agreement funded by USAID for linkage grants to be awarded to U.S. institutions of higher education (IHE), continued to make awards to the entire higher education community for linkage grants under Institutional Partnerships in Higher Education for International Development activity. In FY 2002, three HBCUs were awarded grants in the amount of $100,000 each: Spelman College, Langston University, and Tuskegee University.

iii. Participant Training

USAID continued to provide training opportunities to individuals from developing countries in professional and technical skills that are necessary to assist in the growth and development of these countries. Participant training activities at 11 HBCUs totaled $2,603,454.

HBCUs (# of trainees)	AMOUNT
Bluefield State University (12)	$ 63,963
Harris Stowe State College (54)	$1,099,457
Howard University (12)	$ 42,284
Jackson State University (19)	$ 107,310
Kentucky State University (39)	$ 415,539
Morgan State University (5)	$ 51,318
Spelman College (2)	$ 1,631
St. Philip's (51)	$ 770,100
Southern Univ. A&M College (6)	$ 28,859
Tennessee State University (2)	$ 22,836
Texas Southern University (1)	$ 157
TOTAL	$2,603,454

b. Economic Growth and Agriculture Development (EGAT/EGAD)

In FY 2002, the Center for Economic Growth and Agricultural Development (EGAD) made several awards to HBCUs that were participants with other U.S. IHE in agricultural research activities under the EGAT/EGAD Collaborative Research Support Programs (CRSPs). A description of these activities and HBCU participation follows:

i. Pond Dynamics/Aquaculture (PD/A) CRSP

The University of Arkansas at Pine Bluff (UAPB), the center of excellence for aquaculture and fisheries biology in Arkansas, supports the state's $130 million per year aquaculture industry through its research and extension programs. UAPB has been involved in the PD/A CRSP since its inception in 1982.

Under the current two-year workplan begun on 8/1/01, UAPB researchers and students are conducting 5 studies in the social and economic aspects of aquaculture development, which focus of marketing, product diversification and aquaculture production economics. Two other studies in the aquaculture production optimization focus on the nutritional requirements of native Peruvian fishes. The results of these studies will be available in early 2003. Amount Awarded: $87,977

ii. Peanut CRSP

- Alabama A&M University $65,000
- North Carolina A&T State University $12,500
- Florida A&M University $65,000

The goals of Alabama A&M University and North Carolina A&T State University are to improve the use of the peanut as a direct food source and food ingredient in West Africa, particularly Ghana. Use of peanuts in weaning foods is a priority. Enhanced use of the peanut in soups, improved processing, packaging and marketing of roasted and other directly consumed peanuts, and the use of extrusion as a processing tool are objectives of the research. Minimizing aflatoxin in the products is inherent in the work. The extrusion technology has particular application to U.S. customers. Florida A&M University is working to develop biotechnology to assist in breeding for drought and aflatoxin resistant peanuts. Their collaboration is with the institutes in India and Bangladesh. Total Amount Awarded: $146,000.

iii. Other HBCU Agricultural Research work included:

- a. Agricultural Development & Economic Growth Research and Technical Assistance/ U.S. Department of Agriculture - Resources Support Services Agreement (ADEGRT/USDA-RSSA)

The University of Maryland-Eastern Shore's extension program provided technical assistance in the area of micro-enterprise development. The extension program provides assistance in the Office of Micro-enterprise for promoting micro-finance development assistance programs and research issues including linkages with the agricultural sector and implementing the "Micro-finance Best Practices." Amount Awarded: $1,100,000.

b. Energy and Information Technology (EGAT/EIT)

North Carolina A&T State University - U.S. Department of Agriculture - Resources Support Services Agreement (USDA-RSSA). Amount Awarded: $216,324.

2. BUREAU FOR GLOBAL HEALTH

a. Population Fellows Program

This HBCU Initiative, which began in 1994, is an effort being undertaken by the University of Michigan, with USAID funding. The Initiative supports training, internships and two-year fellowships for students from HBCUs. Students are recruited who excel in their areas of study, have an interest in international family planning or population-environment, and are willing to supplement their graduate programs with training in international health and family planning and/or environmental studies. To increase the group of potential candidates, the program has been expanded to include summer internships to a promising group of undergraduates to introduce these students to the field before they have settled on another career path. Students participated in the program from the HBCUS listed below during FY 2002. Amount Awarded: $158,000.

HBCUs Involved

Clark-Atlanta University	Claflin University
Dillard University	Hampton University
Florida A&M University	Howard University

b. JHPIEGO - Training in Reproductive Health Project

The Johns Hopkins Program in International Education in Reproductive Health (JHPIEGO) partnership with the Morehouse School of Medicine and Charles Drew University of Medicine and Science, International Health Institute is designed to increase the capacity of their staffs to function as clinical training and educational development consultants. Physicians and nurses with a family planning background and an interest in international development are recruited to prepare them as International Reproductive Health Technical Experts. Activities include workshops to prepare clinical trainers to become advanced trainers and eventually master trainers. The program at Charles Drew also provides an opportunity to increase the presence of HBCUs functioning as providers of technical assistance to international development projects in Africa and Latin America. Amount Awarded: $194,479.

3. BUREAU FOR DEMOCRACY, CONFLICT AND HUMANITARIAN ASSISTANCE (DCHA)

a. P.L. 480, Farmer-to-Farmer Sub-grant DCHA/Office of Private and Voluntary Cooperation

Subgrantees: Lincoln University
North Carolina A&T State University
Tennessee State University
Tuskegee University

Each of the four HBCU partners received an annual capacity-building sub-grant in the amount of $20,000 each to increase institutional capability to implement international farmer-to-farmer volunteer projects. Partners utilized the funds to cover costs associated with recruiting African American/minority farmers and agricultural experts, as well as other individuals from minority groups to serve as volunteers. Additionally, the universities can receive finders' fees (up to a maximum of 20 per year) for successfully fielded volunteers. Total Amount Awarded: $80,000.

b. P.L. 480, Farmer-to-Farmer Sub-grant
DCHA/Office of Private and Voluntary Cooperation

Subgrantee: Florida A&M University

Florida Agricultural and Mechanical University (FAMU) strengthens Citizens Network's Farmer-to-Farmer Program recruitment of minorities as volunteers, provides access to specialized training materials, and introduces distance learning techniques. At the same time, FAMU is acquiring -- with active mentoring from Citizens Network -- the full range of experience required to implement an independent Farmer-to-Farmer program.

FAMU uses its sub-grant to dedicate staff and information technology resources to the Farmer-to-Farmer program. Its core responsibility is recruitment of a minimum of six minority volunteers per year, but it also assumes responsibility for overseeing and directing several Farmer-to-Farmer projects through periodic field visits. FAMU participates and contributes to the daily flow of Farmer-to-Farmer headquarters-field communications and discussions. FAMU networks within the United States and develops its own volunteer database. Citizens Network provides FAMU full training and mentoring in the development of independent capacity for Farmer-to-Farmer program management. Amount Awarded: $99,830.

4. BUREAU FOR POLICY AND PROGRAM COORDINATION

The Bureau for Policy and Program Coordination reported funding awarded to North Carolina A&T State University in FY 2002 via a sub-grant through a Reimbursable Support Services Agreement with the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA/RSSA). RSSA personnel are used in a variety of tasks across sectors in which PPC conducts program activities. Award Amount: $399,044.

5. BUREAU FOR AFRICA

The Bureau for Africa reported funding provided to HBCUs in FY 2002 through activities being implemented under several technical areas and special program initiatives. These activities were as follows:

a. Economic Growth, Agriculture, and Environment

HBCU AWARDEES	Amount Awarded
North Carolina A&T State University	$ 174,894
Tuskegee University	$1,200,059
University of MD-Eastern Shore	$ 719,240
Total	$2,094,193

b. Education

i. In June 2002, President Bush formally announced the Africa Education Initiative (AEI) to increase access to quality basic educational opportunities for Africa. Through this initiative, six HBCUs will work in collaboration with six African institutions of higher education to develop 4.5 million textbooks and other learning tools for children in Africa.

Hampton University was awarded a contract in partnership with Elizabeth City State University. Hampton University will issue the solicitation for four additional HBCU partners. Amount Awarded: $5.8 Million.

ii. The University of Maryland-Eastern Shore provided support for numerous Leland Initiative activities, including country assessments, program design, implementation monitoring and reporting. Amount Awarded: $504,854.

c. Trade and Investment

Tuskegee University supports trade and investment activities including six workshops on sanitary and phyto-sanitary compliance and risk assessment plus one to two train-the-trainer workshops. Amount Award: $1,000,000.

d. Democracy and Governance

The Mississippi Consortium for International Development (MCID) is assisting in the development of a state legislative strengthening program in Nigeria to promote accountable, transparent and participatory democratic governance. Amount Awarded: $1,807,393.

e. Education for Development and Democracy Initiative (EDDI)

i. EDDI is a presidential initiative launched in 1998 to strengthen African educational systems and promote Africa's integration into the world community of free-market democracies. EDDI funding was provided to HBCUs through a cooperative agreement with the UNCF Special Program Cooperation for university partnerships in the following areas: a) technology links; b) information resources; c) labor market-oriented training using the community college and vocation education model; d) teacher training; and e) curriculum reform in areas such as business, political science, science, mathematics and technology.

HBCU Awardees	Amount Awarded
Mississippi Valley State Univ.	$ 200,000
Clark Atlanta University	$ 200,000
Mississippi Consortium	$ 200,000

Savannah State University	$ 200,000
UNCF Administration	$ 200,000
Total	$1,000,000

ii. Howard University received EDDI funding for a university partnership in Ethiopia. Amount Awarded: $100,000.

iii. The University of the District of Columbia (UDC), under an Inter-governmental Personnel Agreement (IPA) with USAID, provides expert leadership for the Education for Development and Democracy Initiative (EDDI) in the areas of interagency coordination, program direction, strategic management, African consultation, private sector liaison, coordination with other donors and budget management. Amount Awarded: $100,000.

iv. The Mississippi Consortium for International Development (MCID) received a partnership grant in collaboration with Agostinho Neto University (ANU) of Angola to enhance ANU's capacity to train scientists by improving the quality of undergraduate science and mathematics programs, to enhance ANU's capacity in management, administrative development and proposal development, and to facilitate the process of internationalization at the MCID institutions. Award Amount: $380,000.

f. Africa Bureau HBCU Summer Intern Program

The Africa Bureau has operated a limited HBCU summer intern program since 1996. It is a program which provides primarily graduate students from HBCUs with an opportunity to live in an African country and work with a USAID field mission during the summer months. The Africa Bureau HBCU summer intern program continues to generate much interest and enthusiasm from both the institutions of higher learning and from USAID field missions in Africa. It has proven to be a worthwhile, although time-intensive undertaking.

FY 2002 HBCU placements were as follows:
(one student per mission, $5000/mission)

- Morehouse College to USAID/Malawi
- Morehouse College to USAID/Benin
- Florida A&M University to USAID/Tanzania

USAID field missions in Africa provided housing, in-country travel and a small monthly stipend to the students, while the schools and students were responsible for the international airfare. The program continues to be a powerful summer experience for the students and very worthwhile endeavor for the missions involved. Amount Awarded: $15,000
