AMERICAN COUNCIL OF VOLUNTARY AGENCIES FOR FOREIGN SERVICE, INC.
TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE INFORMATION CLEARING HOUSE (TAICH)
200 Park Avenue South, New York, New York 10003

THE AMERICAN COUNCIL OF VOLUNTARY AGENCIES FOR FOREIGN SERVICE, INC. was founded in 1943 for the purpose of providing a forum for cooperation, joint planning and the exchange of ideas and information in order to avoid duplication of effort and assure the maximum effectiveness of the relief, rehabilitation and development programs of American voluntary agencies. Through the mechanism of the Council, member agencies have established relationships not only among themselves but with non-member agencies and governmental, intergovernmental and international organizations. The Technical Assistance Information Clearing House (TAICH) has been operated by the Council since 1955 with support from the U.S. Government, currently a grant from the Agency for International Development. All agencies that are Council members are noted by a +.

THE TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE INFORMATION CLEARING HOUSE serves as a center of information on the socio-economic development programs abroad of U.S. non-profit organizations, including voluntary agencies, church missions and foundations. It makes available to organizations, government, researchers and others, source materials from its files for study and research. Through publications and the maintenance of an everyday inquiry service TAICH responds to the need for current information about development assistance with particular reference to the resources and concerns of the private, non-profit sector.

THE ADVISORY COMMITTEE ON VOLUNTARY FOREIGN AID was established in 1946 to serve as a focal point for relations between the U.S. Government and U.S. private and voluntary organizations active in the fields of relief, rehabilitation and development overseas. It is composed of private citizens who serve without compensation. The Committee's advisory responsibilities are to provide information and advice to A.I.D. and other U.S. Government agencies relating to areas of foreign assistance in which the Government and private and voluntary organizations interact, to provide assistance to the community of private and voluntary organizations working abroad relative to problems and issues in their relations with A.I.D. and other Federal agencies and to foster public interest in voluntary foreign aid and the activities of the private and voluntary organizations.

Introduction

This report lists 300 U.S. non-profit organizations which are engaged in medical and public health programs abroad. While those included are primarily voluntary agencies, church missions, and foundations certain other non-profit organizations such as professional associations and affiliates of the labor sector are also included.

Point I of the Declaration of Alma-Ata made during the International Conference on Primary Health Care in September 1978 states that: "The Conference strongly reaffirms that health, which is a state of complete physical, mental and social well-being, and not merely the absence of disease or infirmity, is a fundamental human right and that the attainment of the highest possible level of health is a most important social goal whose realization requires the action of many other social and economic sectors in addition to the health sector." In Point V the Conference states that the good health of "all peoples of the world by the year 2000..." should be a worldwide goal and that "Primary health care is the key to attaining this target as part of development in the spirit of social justice."

With the above in mind and while trying to compile a report that truly reflects the broad reaches of non-profit organizations' development assistance in the field of medicine and public health, TAICH staff necessarily had to make "cut-off" points for the inclusion of program information. The breakdown below lists those areas of endeavor which TAICH felt necessitated inclusion under the general category, medicine and public health. Needless to say these sub-categories do not give a complete picture of the total involvement of the non-profit sector in assistance given to the development of the "whole person" -- a long-articulated development goal that may generally be accredited to non-profit organizations.

Disease Control: Eradication of disease programs, immunization programs, sanitation, potable water systems, public health education and other preventive medical programs.

Material Aid: Provision of medical equipment and supplies, medicines, food, financial grants for research, fellowships, and institutional and program support.

Medical Services: Hospitals, clinics, leprosaria, dispensaries, mobile clinics, dental clinics, maternity and maternal/child health centers, general medical and nursing services.

Nutrition: School lunch programs, child feeding, use of protein-rich food, nutrition education, development of new types of foods.

Training of Medical Personnel: Doctors, nurses, dentists, midwives, auxiliaries, technicians.

Population & Family Services: Demographic research, information centers and clinics, supplies, training of personnel, counseling.

Organizations are listed alphabetically as well as by the country of assistance. In addition, there is a chart detailing the type of medical and health programs for each agency. Information on each organization was drawn from a questionnaire mailed to all organizations which had medical and public health programs reported in the 1978 TAICH directory, U.S. Non-Profit Organizations in Development Assistance Abroad. Some organizations which might be appropriate for this list do not appear because they preferred not to participate and in some cases there was insufficient information to provide an accurate entry. For this reason this report should be considered a representative rather than a definitive listing.

To the extent to which organizations provided the appropriate information, entries include four types of information: name, address and telephone number of the organization, its objectives in the field of medicine and public health, a brief description of the organization's medical and health program, and the countries of assistance. An exception to this general format is made for those organizations that primarily provide support. Because the countries they assist may vary from year to year, a list of countries is omitted from the entries for these organizations.

It should be noted that no attempt is made to specify the country where each program is carried out. Thus, in those cases where several projects are described for one organization it should not be assumed that every project is conducted in every country listed under that description, although it is true that at least one of the projects takes place in each country. In addition, many of the organizations included have programs in other fields of development assistance in addition to the medical and public health projects listed here.

Additional information regarding the organizations and programs included in this list is available in the TAICH country report series. In addition TAICH has on file information on specific program details including some information on agencies not appearing in this report for one reason or another but which are involved in medical and public health work.

* AFRICARE

1601 Connecticut Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20009 -- (202) 462-3614

PROGRAM OF ASSISTANCE: Helps cooperating governments in small-scale and comprehensive health planning; provides technical and material support to the provision of hospital, dispensary, maternity and village-based health services; assists the construction, repair and equipping of rural health facilities. Emphasis is placed on working through central and local governments and local institutions to integrate medical and health support with work in other development sectors, and to increase the participation of the people in the process of development. Examples of small scale projects have been the establishment of a nutrition recuperation center in the village of Tianra, Upper Volta, and the construction and equipping of a dispensary in Bintagoungou, located in the Timbuktu-Goundam Region of Mali. In Niger, Africare assisted the government to undertake a program for training medical assistants and upgrading nursing skills at the Maine-Soroa Hospital, located in the isolated eastern region of the country. Under a grant from the U.S. Agency for International Development, Africare worked with the Government of Niger to design and undertake a rural health care delivery program for the Diffa Department emphasizing the extension of health services to rural communities through village health teams, at the same time strengthening public health training, inservice education and field supervision of support and extension personnel. Africare's direct technical assistance to this project is being provided by a public health physician, a surgeon, a gynecologist, an epidemiologist, a hospital maintenance technician and a mechanic. In Upper Volta, support to village-based health services is being provided as part of an integrated rural development program being supported by Africare in the Seguenega Sector, Department of the North. Assistance to village, health post and health center services is being undertaken within a broad program of development support that integrates preventive and curative health services with such activities as food production, village water supply improvements, adult literacy, young farmer training, and rural access road improvement.

AMERICAN BAPTIST CHURCHES IN THE USA

Board of International Ministries

Valley Forge, Pennsylvania 19481 -- (215) 768-2000

PROGRAM OF ASSISTANCE: Supports and provides personnel to hospitals, clinics, dispensaries and leprosy institutions; supports training schools for nurses and other medical personnel. Works with governments in their programs of family planning through mission hospitals, clinics and outpatient services. An example of an innovative program is that of Zaire where they support hospitals, dispensaries and medical training schools which trained nurses. Strong emphasis is being placed upon preventive medicine, public health and family planning. In Zaire there are medical workers who are higher in status than a nurse and lower than a fully trained doctor, several of whom head hospitals having no resident doctor and perform major and minor surgery. An American Baptist doctor working in public health, along with two colleagues, has helped train these workers.

COUNTRIES OF ASSISTANCE: Africa: Zaire; East Asia & Pacific: Philippines, Thailand; Latin America: El Salvador, Haiti, Nicaragua; Near East-South Asia: India.

of Hodeidah, on the Red Sea, where CRS helped establish the Al Ology Hospital-- the only major medical facility for 1.5 million people. As part of a nutrition education program CRS has developed a team consisting of four nutrition teachers who go out, together with a doctor and a nurse from the Al Ology Hospital, in a mobile unit fully equipped for providing nutrition education and medical aid to the Tihamas, a desolate desert coastal strip with high incidence of malnutrition and disease. This expanded public health program now includes nutrition education, preventive medicine and medical care made available in Hodeidah (at the health center and at the Al Ology Hospital) and in the Tihamas coastal desert strip. A further expansion of this undertaking consists in a program for training village health providers (equivalent to barefoot doctors) from the Tihamas at Al Ology Hospital. This marks the beginning of public health care in that area.

THE FORD FOUNDATION

320 East 43rd Street, New York, New York 10017 -- (212) 573-5000

PROGRAM OF ASSISTANCE: The Foundation provides advisory, training and research support for family planning programs and population studies. This support includes: grants for research in reproductive sciences and contraceptive development (more than half of the Foundation's support for population work has been applied to research in these areas); helping establish research and training capacity for social research related to population changes and their relationships to other aspects of development; assistance for projects in population education and communications; support for maternal/child health programs and for programs to test models for delivery of low-cost family planning services through existing maternal/child health services. A major review of the state of reproductive and contraceptive knowledge, commissioned by the Foundation in 1973, was completed in 1977. To link groups from several developing countries that are studying ways to adapt contraceptive products to local needs and customs, the Program for the Introduction and Adaptation of Contraceptive Technology (PIACT) was formed in 1976. Assistance is also given for research and training in nutrition and its effects on infant mortality, early childhood health and learning, and labor productivity. In Brazil, for example, the Foundation has assisted graduate training abroad in nutrition for young Brazilians and a survey of malnutrition among 500 preschool children in Sao Paulo. A grant is supporting three-month courses in nutrition for personnel in nutrition-related public and private agencies, sponsored by the University of Sao Paulo and the Paulista School of Medicine.

American Headquarters: 2000 East Red Bridge Road, Kansas City, Missouri 63131 -- (816) 942-2000

Mailing Address: P.O. Box 55, Kansas City, Missouri 64141

PROGRAM OF ASSISTANCE: Operates the Mount of David Crippled Children's Hospital (the only free children's orthopedic facility in the West Bank) which provides surgical, rehabilitation and physiotherapy services for poor and crippled children of the West Bank and surrounding areas. Treats children suffering from club foot deformities, congenital hip dislocation, polio, cerebral palsy and other crippling diseases. Currently over 2,000 crippled children are on the waiting list for surgery. To meet this escalating demand, Holy Land Christian Mission is in the process of constructing a new, expanded hospital facility. The Mission has also opened two satellite physiotherapy clinics, so that young patients can receive post-operative physiotherapy closer to their own homes. By shortening the average hospital stay of these children bed space is made available in the Hospital for other patients. One of the Mission's goals is to educate people of the area about new medicines, good health and hygiene practices, symptoms of illnesses, and the kinds of surgery, treatment and therapy available to correct crippling effects. To this end public education services are provided through radio, television, speeches and regular meetings with parents. The Mission provides orthopedic training for nurses, physiotherapists and resident doctors and conducts research in orthopedic surgery and rehabilitation techniques.

* INTERNATIONAL INSTITUTE OF RURAL RECONSTRUCTION

U.S. Office: 1775 Broadway, New York, New York 10019 -- (212) 245-2680

Headquarters in Philippines: Silang, Cavite, Philippines

OBJECTIVES: To develop local institutions concerned with the solution of health problems within the village and among villages, and to evolve a system of recruitment, training and support appropriate to part-time village health workers who come from the villages.

PROGRAM OF ASSISTANCE: Health with IIRR is one facet of an integrated four-fold program of livelihood, health, education and civic responsibility to improve the quality of life of rural people in developing countries. Its overall approach in health is to harness the rural people's own energies for improvement of their health. Villagers are trained in the basic knowledge and skills to confront common health problems through both preventive and curative measures. They then function as extension agents in such health areas as nutrition, family planning, maternal and child care, environmental sanitation, or serve as medical auxiliaries. IIRR is also engaged in searching for new effective approaches to rural health and population problems in developing countries. It conducts training for health personnel of other agencies in third world countries as well. IIRR cooperates with government health officers, local health centers and international health institutions, to conduct programs of malaria and parasite eradication, tuberculosis control and other immunization campaigns.

* NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF THE PARTNERS OF THE ALLIANCE, INC.

Partners of the Americas

2001 S Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20009 -- (202) 332-7332

PROGRAM OF ASSISTANCE: Partners of the Americas draws upon the professional expertise of volunteers from 44 U.S. states and 21 Latin American nations who work together on self-help projects that have a multiplier effect. A "partnership" links a state in the U.S. with a counterpart state, region or country in Latin America. The National Association assists the partnerships through program development, professional management services, travel grants for volunteer technicians, fund raising, promotion of a national image for the program and obtaining project resources from other organizations. The programs listed below are representative of the work of the Partners Committees: improved water and sewage systems; material, technical and financial support for construction of health centers; medical equipment and supplies, rehabilitation equipment and orthopedic devices; technical assistance in establishment of potable water systems, regional immunization and disease prevention education programs; hospital administration, regional health planning, improvement of health center facilities and development of improved medical record-keeping systems; dental clinics in rural schools and training for maternal/child health care personnel, nutritionists and medical and laboratory technicians; school lunch programs and technical assistance in nutrition education; advanced and specialized training for all areas of medicine; university seminars in the latest techniques of medical and dental surgery; programs to improve services and opportunities for physically handicapped, mentally retarded or socially handicapped people, including training for 6,000-7,000 rehabilitation specialists in advanced techniques. One project of the Partners is that of the Texas/Peru partnership. A team organized by the University of Texas was sent to Peru to conduct seminars for 200 medical and paramedical personnel on the evaluation and treatment of Hansen's disease (leprosy). The team visited the homes of patients and offered instructions on physical therapy and the use of devices to protect insensitive hands and feet. This project is now leading into a major program of academic exchange between hospitals and institutions in Peru and Texas.

THE ROCKEFELLER FOUNDATION

1133 Avenue of the Americas, New York, New York 10036 -- (212) 869-8500

PROGRAM OF ASSISTANCE: As approved by the Trustees in December 1977, a network of high quality investigators is being created to bring techniques of modern biomedical science to bear on the neglected diseases of the less-developed, largely tropical countries. These diseases, which afflict hundreds of millions of people, include schistosomiasis, hookworm, malaria, sleeping sickness, amebic dysentery, and fatal diarrheas of infants. The network now comprises ten units located at some of the world's leading medical research institutions. All are headed by outstanding scientists who are attracting cadres of students and young investigators. The rapid establishment of these groups is resulting in a critical mass of investigators with a high output, both quantitatively and qualitatively. Each unit is forming links with medical schools or research laboratories in the developing world. This activity is closely related to population objectives and to the research on parasitic diseases of domestic animals initiated under the Conquest of Hunger program.

THE UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN THE U.S.A.

The Program Agency

475 Riverside Drive, New York, New York 10027 -- (212) 870-2687.

OBJECTIVES: The major priority in the health ministries of the United Presbyterian Church is given to basic health services reaching to communities, supported by community organization, involving new types of health personnel linked to supporting capabilities in the health care system. The development and improvement of basic health services accessible to all is another priority. Programs of community organization and education, primarily developing out of the community, are needed to begin, strengthen and sustain basic health services. New types of health personnel and new roles for them in training workers and providing services should be strongly emphasized. New and expanded responsibilities for hospitals in providing outreach and support services for community health programs should be encouraged.

PROGRAM OF ASSISTANCE: Supports with funds and personnel the work of overseas affiliated churches and church councils which include the following: ecumenical, experimental and basic health programs giving particular emphasis to new directions of basic health care and stressing the importance of human values to the health ministry; clinics, community health and public health programs directed both to primary and secondary health care through basic health services and clinics; institutional outreach programs whose grants support community health and community service programs provided by large and small hospitals related to the church; provision of hospital and clinic supplies; support to general medical institutions including hospitals.

*+ YOUNG WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION OF THE U.S.A.

World Relations Unit of the National Board

600 Lexington Avenue, New York, New York 10022 -- (212) 753-4700

PROGRAM OF ASSISTANCE: At the request of the World YWCA, the YWCA of the U.S.A. provides small loans and grants which often serve as seed money for government and private funding in support of the following programs of autonomous overseas YWCAs: health, sanitation, nutrition and child care education (including in-service training courses for men and women health clinic employees); village health and family planning projects; outpatient and well-baby clinics (including a clinic in Pakistan emphasizing a preventive approach to health problems and providing a special service for undernourished babies); pure water and sanitation planning with local authorities. One example of their medical programs is a village center for women located near Dacca, Bangladesh, where participants and their children receive medical examinations by a physician and treatment for any diagnosed problems (most commonly malnutrition, anemia and parasites). The women receive training at the center in health education, child care and family planning. While they are attending the courses, they are supplied with nutritional supplements and each woman and child is fed a high protein meal. The YWCA of the U.S.A. participates in the World YWCA Program of Cooperation for Development. National YWCAs design their own programs and projects often in cooperation with coalitions of development agencies, including local provincial and/or national governments.

COUNTRIES OF ASSISTANCE: Africa: Botswana, Madagascar, Rhodesia (Zimbabwe), South Africa, Tanzania, Uganda, Zambia; East Asia & Pacific: Burma, Fiji, Papua New Guinea, Philippines; Latin America: Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Jamaica, Mexico, Peru, Uruguay; Near East-South Asia: Bangladesh, Egypt, India, Lebanon, Pakistan.
