AMERICAN COUNCIL OF VOLUNTARY AGENCIES FOR FOREIGN SERVICE, INC.

The American Council of Voluntary Agencies for Foreign Service was founded in November 1943, and incorporated in June 1944, to provide a professional forum for cooperation, joint planning and the exchange of ideas and information between voluntary agencies, governments and intergovernmental bodies. The Council is organized as a 49 member confederation of voluntary agencies and consortia and is supported by membership fees. Member agencies listed in the directory are identified by +.

The work is carried on primarily through functional committees. For other than purely administrative purposes and in addition to the Board of Directors and the Executive Committee, the Council has three standing committees dealing with areas of concern to the membership: the Committee on Development Assistance, the Committee on Material Resources and the Committee on Migration and Refugee Affairs.

Since 1955 the Council has operated the Technical Assistance Information Clearing House with support from the U.S. Agency for International Development. TAICH serves as an information center specializing in the socio-economic development programs abroad of U.S. voluntary agencies, church missions, foundations, and other nonprofit organizations. It makes available to organizations, government, researchers and others through publications and the maintenance of an inquiry service, current information about development assistance with particular reference to the resources and concerns of the private, nonprofit sector.

INTRODUCTION

This first edition of Central America and the Caribbean - Development Assistance Abroad is the successor to a series of TAICH country reports and regional directories on the overseas development assistance programs of U.S. nonprofit organizations dating back to 1966 when TAICH published the first regional book. Over 80 countries have been covered in TAICH country reports. These are being supplanted by a new series of regional directories which provides program data for a variety of countries within a specific region.

A number of U.S. private, nonprofit organizations have been operating programs in Central America and the Caribbean for a long time; a rough average is around 15 years. Many of those which initiated program operations during the last century began with missionary endeavors as they attempted to address the effects of poverty and maldistribution of resources. Other organizations, especially those which started programs in the last three decades in the region, have frequently done so with the sole purpose of providing specific kinds of development assistance.

More recently, both Central America and the Caribbean have been the focus of economic and political developments which has made the involvement of the private and voluntary community in the region of particular interest and importance. This directory serves as a guide to finding out which agencies provide what kinds of assistance in the 32 countries which make up the region. The format provides basic agency and program data to help facilitate cooperation among agencies and with other organizations, and includes indexes which lead the user directly to the information that he or she seeks.

A total of 267 organizations appears in the directory. These include voluntary agencies, foundations, religious organizations and other nonprofit organizations including affiliates and branches of business, labor and the cooperative sector. A total of 162 organizations are listed as operating programs and 105 as providing program support. It should be noted that the distinction between operating and support is somewhat arbitrary, but needed in indicating those organizations which conduct long-term programs with in-country offices and personnel. This differentiation between organizations is also useful in reviewing the program expenditures of these agencies.

Some 173 organizations reported program expenditures for 26 countries which totalled $130,836,909. This figure can be broken down geographically to show a total of $47,569,741 in program expenditures for the 18 countries in the Caribbean, $81,948,838 for the eight countries in Central America and $1,318,330 for programs carried out on a regional basis. These figures must be seen as the "tip of the iceberg" since many agencies were unable to identify their development program expenditures or break them out by country from their overall program costs.

Questionnaires were sent to organizations listed as providing program assistance in the region in the 1983 TAICH directory - U.S. Nonprofit Organizations in Development Assistance Abroad. The information given on each organization is based on the data supplied to us by the organization whether this was specially prepared in response to the questionnaire or derived by the editors from reports and promotional materials which the organization supplied. This information, as corrected and approved by the organization, has been accepted in good faith, without further investigation. Publication of the information does not guarantee accuracy of content or the endorsement of any organization by the American Council or TAICH.

Additional information regarding the organizations and programs included in this directory is available in the TAICH system. TAICH has on file information on specific program details including some data on agencies not appearing in this report for one reason or another but which are involved in providing development assistance in the region.

Appreciation is extended to the entire TAICH team for their assistance and cooperation during the compilation of this directory. The word processing operators who are responsible for the production of this book deserve praise for their patience and thorough work. A special note of thanks goes to all the staff of the agencies included, who gave their full cooperation in providing the requested information.

HOW TO USE THIS DIRECTORY

PART I - Organization Profiles

This section is an alphabetical listing of the U.S. nonprofit organizations included in this directory. Entries contain: agency address and telephone number, name and title of the agency executive, name and title of the regional program director, and a list of the countries of assistance. Those organizations which primarily provide support assistance are noted by an (S) for support and their entries in Part I include a general description of their overall program. In cases where an organization has both operating and support programs, a particular country of assistance is listed as operating (o) or support (s). An organization index to Part I appears at the end of the directory.

PART II - Country Program Information

This section contains country program data for those organizations which operate programs in the region. At the top right side of each entry is a code name and country code which is used in identifying organizations in the program activity index. Further information on the use of this index along with a list of the terms or types of program activities is found on pages 285-289.

To the extent to which organizations provided the appropriate information, entries include the following data:

1. Name of organization
2. In-country contact name, address and telephone number
3. Program of assistance
A listing of terms (descriptors) which describe the nature of the assistance in that country.
4. Personnel
Numbers of overseas personnel (U.S., local and international) involved in program of assistance.
5. Program initiation
Date when organization started working in that country.
6. Expenditures for FY (fiscal year) 1982
Program expenditures for development programs.
7. Cooperating organizations
Governments and organizations which assist or cooperate with the program.

Where there is no name and address of contact, it can frequently be presumed that the program is administered from an organization's headquarters in the U.S. (see Part I). Often expenditures could not be broken out for individual countries because they were accounted for on a regional basis.

Each country listing is preceded by a brief summary which gives the total number of U.S. organizations listed in that country, and the expenditures for FY 1982 which were provided by some of the organizations. Support organizations are listed along with their program expenditures (when available) at the end of each set of country program data.

The asterik (*) before the name of an organization indicates that it is registered with the Agency for International Development. Registered organizations are eligible to apply for A.I.D. resources, including grants and participation in the U.S. Government overseas freight reimbursement, Food for Peace and Government-owned excess property programs. For a current list of registered agencies write to the Office of Private and Voluntary Cooperation, Bureau for Food for Peace and Voluntary Assistance, Agency for International Development, Washington, D.C. 20523.

The plus (+) indicates that an organization is a member of the American Council of Voluntary Agencies for Foreign Service, Inc.

Indexes

The directory includes three basic indexes: a country index that lists all the organizations which provide assistance in a given country, including support organizations which are noted by an (s); a program activity index which uses a comprehensive listing of terms (descriptors) to identify organizations by their areas of assistance; and an organization index which includes the code names of all the organizations with page references to their entries in Part 1 of the directory.

Appendix

The country code names which are used along with organization code names to identify programs in specific countries are found in the appendix.

PROGRAM ACTIVITY INDEX

PROGRAM ACTIVITY INDEX

This index serves as a quick reference for identifying which agencies are involved in a given activity in individual countries. It contains terms (descriptors) which have been used to describe the program activities of organizations listed in Part II. Each organization is indexed by its code name and the country under which it appears (e.g. Winrock International in Haiti is listed as WINROCK/HTI). A complete alphabetical listing of organizations with their codes names is found in the organization index. A listing of country code names is found in the appendix.

The program activities of the support organizations (S) are indexed under the broad category headings (in boldface) and appear at the end of this index. A fuller description of their overall activities appears in Part I.

It should be noted that this index provides reference only to those activities which are specifically mentioned under programs of assistance and, therefore, is not inclusive of all areas of agency support or operation in this region.
