TAICH COUNTRY REPORT
DEVELOPMENT ASSISTANCE PROGRAMS FOR GHANA

February 1982

This report describes the programs of 45 private, non-profit U.S. organizations which provide the people of Ghana with development assistance and material aid. An index of the specific programs appears in chart form at the end of the report. Of the 45 U.S. organizations included in the report, 26 were able to provide TAICH with financial data indicating program expenditures in 1981 totaling $12,221,764. These figures should be viewed more as indicators than as exact sums; differences in fiscal year, methods of financial reporting and methods of estimating dollar values of commodities, equipment and materiel shipped make correlation and absolute accuracy impossible.

This is one of a series of periodically revised reports which describe by country the development assistance activities of the U.S. non-profit sector. Additional and new information on the programs of the organizations appearing in this report is gathered regularly and is available from TAICH. Readers are requested to advise TAICH of any changes or new programs of U.S. private, non-profit organizations in Ghana. Besides country reports, TAICH publishes directories, bibliographies, a quarterly newsletter and a series of category reports in which descriptions of assistance programs are compiled by functions of development assistance. A publications list is available from TAICH.

The information given on each organization is based on the data supplied to TAICH by the organization. Publication of this information does not guarantee accuracy of content or endorsement by the American Council or TAICH of any organization.

AMERICAN COUNCIL OF VOLUNTARY AGENCIES FOR FOREIGN SERVICE, INC.
TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE INFORMATION CLEARING HOUSE (TAICH)
200 Park Avenue South, New York, New York 10003

THE AMERICAN COUNCIL OF VOLUNTARY AGENCIES FOR FOREIGN SERVICE, INC. was founded in 1943 for the purpose of providing a forum for cooperation, joint planning and the exchange of ideas and information in order to avoid duplication of effort and assure the maximum effectiveness of relief, rehabilitation and development programs of American voluntary agencies. Through the mechanism of the Council, member agencies have established relationships not only among themselves but with non-member agencies and governmental, intergovernmental and international organizations. The Technical Assistance Information Clearing House (TAICH) has been operated by the Council since 1955 with support from the U.S. Government, currently a grant from the Agency for International Development. All agencies that are Council members are noted by a +.

THE TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE INFORMATION CLEARING HOUSE serves as a center of information on the socio-economic development programs abroad of U.S. non-profit organizations, including voluntary agencies, church missions and foundations. It makes available to organizations, governments, researchers and others, source materials from its files for study and research. Through publications and the maintenance of an everyday inquiry service TAICH responds to the need for current information about development assistance with particular reference to the resources and concerns of the private, non-profit sector.

THE AGENCY FOR INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT (A.I.D.), maintains in its Bureau for Food for Peace and Voluntary Assistance a registry of U.S. private and voluntary organizations active in the fields of relief, rehabilitation and development overseas. Registered organizations are eligible to apply for A.I.D. resources, including grants and participation in the U.S. Government overseas freight reimbursement, Food for Peace and Government-owned excess property programs. For a current list of registered organizations write to the Agency for International Development, Office of Private and Voluntary Cooperation, Washington, D.C. 20523. Registered organizations are noted by an *.

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT: The African-American Labor Center resident representative, in collaboration with the Ghana Trades Union Congress (GTUC) and the National Agricultural Workers Union, developed a rural development scheme to assist small farmers to improve production methods, as well as their health, nutrition and child care facilities. The project covers several parts of the country where agricultural workers have organized small farmers. AALC provided initial financial support and expertise, but the project will eventually be self-sufficient and expand to generate additional employment.

COOPERATIVES, CREDIT UNIONS & LOANS: Assists the GTUC to develop consumer cooperatives and credit unions.

EDUCATION: Supports the Ghana Labour College in Accra where trade unionists receive training in union administration, labor law, economics, collective bargaining research and other subjects related to the operation of trade unions. The college also provides a literacy program in cooperation with the Peace Corps. The resident representative is assisting the college to develop a curriculum for specialized and advanced fields of studies needed by the trade unions.

MEDICINE & PUBLIC HEALTH: Provided a mobile medical clinic to the GTUC to be used in treating workers and their families.

FUTURE PLANS: A feasibility study for the establishment of day care centers in Ghana has been completed, and actual establishment and sources of funding are under study.

FOOD PRODUCTION & AGRICULTURE: Supports the Farmers' Association and Agribusiness Development Project in Tamale. In 1980, the second year of this five-year project, nearly completed procurement, began warehouse construction, developed 10 rabbit projects, strengthened 35 women's groups, formed eight new farmers' associations and strengthened 20 others. Other projects introduced bullock farming and land conservation techniques to thousands of farmers. In addition, supported two small rabbit projects, one of which taught rabbit raising techniques to disabled children at a nutrition clinic.

MEDICINE & PUBLIC HEALTH: A total of 276,657 mothers and children participated in CRS-supported nutrition programs in 1980. In 250 maternal-child health centers operated by the Ministry of Health, over 186,000 mothers and preschool aged children received PL 480 Title II food supplements to improve or maintain their nutritional status. The program includes regular monthly attendance of mothers and their preschool children at a nutrition education session, accurate measurements of the child's weight, effective utilization of growth charts and regular distribution of a supplementary food ration. In 1980, the school feeding program provided a nutritious lunch, consisting of PL 480 Title II food, to 68,415 primary school students in 123 centers. Additional child feeding programs serve 11,000 institutionalized children in orphanages and day-care centers with food commodities provided by both PL 480 Title II and EEC supplemental food contributions. In 1980, CRS also supported sanitation and public health projects, a pharmacy scholarship program and mobile clinics.

The Ghana Rural Reconstruction Movement (GhRRM), organized with the help of the International Institute of Rural Reconstruction (IIRR) in 1972, is a private, indigenous organization under the sponsorship of a board of leading Ghanaians. The IIRR supports GhRRM by providing training at IIRR's Philippine campus for GhRRM's senior personnel (supervisors and specialists), providing technical follow-up and providing partial financial support until the Movement can be completely supported by local funds. For its field operation, GhRRM selected a pilot area in the Mapong Valley in the eastern region of Ghana, comprising 30 major and satellite villages with some 4,000 people on about 25 square miles. It undertakes an integrated four-fold program of livelihood, health, education and self-government, which was initiated in 1974 after the training of the senior staff at the IIRR in the Philippines. With the collaboration of the University of Ghana, a baseline survey of the area was made to serve both for planning a cohesive GhRRM program, and for measuring and evaluating its effectiveness. A multi-purpose structure was built at Yensi Center to serve as the Rural Training Institute for village leaders, farmers and youths, and for training village people as extension agents in the major areas of rural reconstruction. GhRRM staff live in the villages and conduct the programs described below.

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT: Mobilized village collaboration in such projects as building of a water tank, road improvement and a drying/storage crib. The Movement tries to work through the traditional government system of villages, and is at present concentrating on developing an effective method of using traditional and western systems of local government. Development plans for the area have been discussed with local tribal chieftains.

COOPERATIVES, CREDIT UNIONS & LOANS: Helped form 13 poultry and agricultural cooperatives which were federated into the Farmers Association and Agribusiness Development (FAAD). In addition, has assisted in the establishing of six village-based cooperatives.

EDUCATION: Trains volunteer literacy teachers, conducts literacy classes, organizes youth groups, teaches vocational arts such as mat weaving and bamboo crafts at Yensi Center, organizes sports programs, cooperates with local schools in introducing rural reconstruction subjects to students, educates villagers in new metric and money systems.

FOOD PRODUCTION & AGRICULTURE: The FAAD is managing a feedmill constructed with the assistance of a grant from U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID) to enhance GhRRM's program of poultry production and marketing by small farmers, providing quality feed at reasonable prices to the area's poultry raisers. While the farmer-members of FAAD supply the feedmill with raw materials (cassava, sorghum, corn, etc.) which they themselves grow, they are also the primary consumers of the poultry feeds that the mill produces. GhRRM has also introduced into its pilot area various modern agricultural practices, including mul-ticropping, row planting, diversification of crops, use of fer-tilizers and insecticides, weeding, use of improved seeds, and is training farmers to raise poultry, rabbits, pigs, sheep and goats, and to construct scientific chicken coops using inexpen-sive local materials. These techniques are transmitted through IIRR's "farmer-scholar approach" where villagers teach fellow villagers improved methods of raising crops and livestock. Also runs a research and demonstration farm near Yensi Center, and at the Center gives short courses and seminars for farmers.

MEDICINES & PUBLIC HEALTH: Conducts health clinics in villages as well as at Yensi Center. Staff gives inoculations against communicable diseases, treats illnesses, and refers serious cases to a medical officer or hospital. In many villages conducts sick and well-baby clinics and preschool programs; holds mothers' classes on maternal and child health, nutrition, sanitation (es-pecially in handling water); initiates water supply projects. Advocates environmental sanitation, holds classes in construction and installation of water-sealed toilet bowls. Conducts study on traditional village midwives and herbalists to enlist and retrain them in more scientific practices. Personnel from the Ministry of Health collaborates in GhRRM's health program.

programs in nursing, midwifery, X-ray technology; programs for nurse-anesthetists, theater technicians and pharmacy dispensing assistants; and in-service training for graduate nursing staff. Public health work includes nine satellite clinics and services including medical supervision of two health and maternity centers; daily health education and hygiene classes at the hospital's outpatient department; newborn, under-five and nutrition clinics, where food demonstrations and classes on nutrition and hygiene are given; a special weekly malnutrition clinic; a demonstration vegetable garden at the hospital for those attending nutrition and under-five clinics, vaccinations in the various clinics; nutrition classes five days weekly for mothers of children admitted to the pediatric ward; and prenatal clinics at the hospital five times weekly and postnatal home visits. Conducts weekly health education classes for tuberculosis patients and provides a monthly chest clinic (serving approximately 50 patients) as well as a home delivery service. A full-time physical therapist provides rehabilitation and prosthetic education services. Holds monthly medical conferences in the hospital for doctors from government and mission hospitals in the Brong-Ahafo area. Operates the 54-bed general Diocesan Holy Family Hospital at Techiman, whose public health efforts include: a prenatal clinic held three times weekly, where inoculations and health instruction are given; a nutrition clinic, held three times weekly at the hospital; a twice monthly chest clinic; home-visiting and followup of patients discharged from the hospital. The hospital also holds a weekly intensive nutrition clinic at Baafi in cooperation with an agriculturist and health inspector; an under-five clinic held weekly in Nsuta; and a general clinic held weekly in Manso, which includes prenatal and health teaching and once monthly, a well-baby clinic. Hospital staff have designed and are participating in training programs for village health workers and indigenous healers. A team of four sisters live and work in Abease, teaching local health workers basic nutrition and child care. They have also provided inservice training to the village dresser. Formed baker's union and started a beekeeping project. In Sunyani one sister works as Health Development Coordinator with the Diocesan Health Council, another works in the Diocesan Pharmacy and a third sister is surgeon at the Regional Government Hospital.

FUTURE PLANS: To extend public health programs with an emphasis on primary health care, and training of village health workers and indigenous healers. To upgrade further indigenous hospital staff so that they may assume full supervisory and management level positions. To expand credit unions for the benefit of patients and staff and plan additional low-cost staff housing for Berekum and Techiman.
