PREFACE

This bibliography references materials of particular interest to people working on gender issues in Latin America and the Caribbean. It has a special focus on three main thematic areas: Democratic Initiatives, Agriculture and Natural Resources, and Trade and Investment. Information is provided to a lesser extent in the areas of statistics, poverty and human resources. The bibliography was compiled by systematic database searches and lists of references passed on by experts in each thematic area. An index is provided at the end to enable the user to identify material specific to an author or country. The index references both primary and secondary authors.

Special thanks to Catherine Salisbury for her capable editorial assistance. GENESYS welcomes any comments, corrections or updates on the information contained herein.

This report was produced as part of a GENESYS research effort for A.I.D.'s LAC Bureau to identify gaps in knowledge about women in development in the region and to develop a research plan for the Bureau.

GENESYS (Gender in Economic and Social Systems) is an A.I.D. funded project supporting A.I.D.'s efforts to integrate women into the national economies of developing countries around the world. The project provides assistance to A.I.D. staff worldwide in reviewing, initiating, or expanding women in development activities for sustainable economic and social development. Project components include technical assistance, training, policy research and evaluation, and information dissemination and communications. The sectoral foci are private enterprise, agriculture and rural development, and environment/natural resource management.
