New GVN Organization Chart Distributed

A revised organization chart of the national level of government of the Republic of Vietnam has been distributed separately. While necessarily unofficial, it has been checked with key GVN officials for accuracy and currency.

It incorporates the offices of the new Vice Premiers over all Ministries except Justice and Foreign Affairs. Also included are the new Central Pacification Committee, the Minister without Portfolio and the General Office for People's Suggestions and Complaints. Another significant change is the addition of the new Department of Social Welfare (not yet a Ministry because it is headed by a Secretary of State) which consolidates several previously scattered functions. Conversely, Youth and Sports is now a Special Commissariat rather than a Department or Ministry, headed by a Special Commissioner.

As do all such charts, the new one necessarily fails to disclose many of the actual organizational relationships. In addition the new government is still formulating its policy and organization and it is difficult at best to show the complex administration resulting. Of even greater importance, it also fails to highlight the role of the military vis a vis the civilian aspects of the government in the present situation. This chart may be considered a point of reference for future changes and clarifications, which will be reported in future PA Bulletins as they occur. Additions and corrections should be reported to PAD for incorporation in future charts. The companion map and chart of field administration and local government are not yet available.

Current list of GVN Officials

A new listing of Ministers, Directors General and other selected key officials as of May 20, 1964 has been compiled and is attached for reference as a companion list to the new organization chart. The heads of most of the agencies shown on the chart are included. Additions and corrections should be reported to PAD for incorporation in future Bulletins.

List of Province Chiefs and Deputies

Because so many changes have occurred since the last listing in February of province chiefs and deputies a complete new list has been reproduced as of May 14, 1964. Also, incorporated are Corps and Division designations by provinces along with names of commanders. Since these assignments change rather frequently, care should be exercised in checking the continued validity of this transient information.

Forty District Chiefs Complete Civil Administrative Training

On April 13, 1964, the inaugural two week course of training in civil administration was completed by forty military officers serving as District Chiefs in 39 provinces. Jointly sponsored by Ministry of Interior and the National Institute of Administration with USOM/PAD technical advice, the course covered such subjects as the structure and functions of local government, District Chief's responsibilities and relationships to various groups and the people, how to organize and conduct elections, settle disputes, make decisions, deal with political, economic and social problems and plans for development.

This training will be repeated monthly starting June 15 at the NIA in Saigon with one District Chief per month from each province attending until all 238 have been trained.

The same subject matter was also presented over a four-week period by instructors from NIA and fifteen ministries to the 750-man graduating class at Thu Duc Reserve Officer School. Many of these young military officers will be assigned as Deputy District Chiefs throughout the country.

New PA Participant Training Guide Issued

The 1964 edition of the Program Guide to Participant Training in Public Administration and Community Development has recently been issued by Public Administration Training Branch of AID/Washington. It provides policy statements, general information and guidelines for costing and drafting PIO/P's as well as brief descriptions of the major areas of training and specific course offerings. These include such varied subjects as statistics, banking, legal, judicial, library, community development, social welfare administration, as well as the usual governmental management fields, tax, postal, customs and immigration.

Single copies are available to interested offices by contacting USOM/PAD.

NIA Graduates 82

The IX promotion of the regular three-year course at the National Institute of Administration was graduated on May 2, 1964. The class was equally divided between those who completed the civil administration track and those who specialized in economics and finance. All, except the three young ladies, will be assigned as Deputy District Chiefs in the provinces after they have received an additional nine months of military officer training.

By Decree 189-QP of May 7, 1964, Prime Minister Khanh transformed the Bao An into the "Dia Phuong Quan" (Regional Forces). The Regional Forces are put directly under the Defense Ministry and will be paid by the National Budget.

The organization of the Regional Forces will be defined by the Defense Ministry.

The Directorate General of Bao An and Dan Ve and related services are dissolved. The Bao An (Civil Guard) was created on April 8, 1955.

All Armed Forces Merged into Single Organization

Prime Minister Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh on May 22, 1964, decreed the merging of all armed forces into a single organization named "The Armed Forces of the Republic of Vietnam".
