High Impact Health Services Strategic Objective (SO6)

Summary

USAID's health program aims to increase access to and use of key health services in three areas: child survival; family planning/reproductive health; and HIV/AIDS. Funding is used to expand access to HIV/AIDS prevention and testing services, further consolidate HIV/AIDS surveillance activities, expand malaria prevention and treatment programs, reduce vitamin A and iron deficiency, increase immunization coverage, prevent and treat diarrheal diseases, expand access to family planning and reproductive health services. In addition, the program seeks to strengthen the capacity of the Ministry Health, civil society, and private sector to deliver key health services.

Shared Governance through Decentralization Strategic Objective (SO8)

Summary

The purpose of USAID's new Democracy and Governance program in Mali is to help the Malian people establish a system of democratic governance at the local level whereby all actors - state, civil society and private sector - come together as partners to find solutions to local development problems. This program provides assistance to: promote the participation of various groups in the democratic process and create viable links among them; provide local communities with the skills to administer their own financial systems; develop policies that support the success of decentralized government; and increase women's role in decision making.

Accelerated Economic Growth Strategic Objective (SO9)

Summary

USAID Mali's economic growth program focuses on the development, transformation, and productivity in the agricultural sector. The program works to reinforce and develop the private sector. Targeted interventions in the production, processing and trade of the selected commodities increase rural income. USAID will also improve the management of agribusinesses and microfinance institutions, and the stewardship of natural resources. Negotiation of beneficial regional and world trade agreements will be reinforced through USAID's activities. The program supports the objectives of and participates in the President's Initiative to End Hunger in Africa (IEHA) and the Global Climate Change Initiative.

Communications for Development Special Objective (SpO10)

Summary

This special objective is designed to make it easier for Malians to get access to information that will enable them to improve the quality of their lives. The program will be accomplished by improving the quality of information available on development-related topics; by promoting alliances and partnerships between Malian institutions and information technology firms; and by reducing regulatory and policy constraints on information access. It is a follow-on to the Information and Communications Special Objective. While the former program focused on the technologies, the new one will take advantage of these technologies by emphasizing the development of content that will directly benefit students, teachers, entrepreneurs, farmers, families, health workers and government employees (especially those outside of the capital city). The new program will also provide community radio stations with Internet access, thereby making information from the worldwide web available to the vast listening audience in Mali.

Management & Support

Summary:

USAID/Mali has four support offices that work both directly and indirectly with its partners. The primary responsibility of each support office is to support the Front Office and the five Strategic Objective Teams. While the Front Office serves as the direct point of contact on all 'politically sensitive' matters, the Program Office is tasked with all issues concerning coordination of mission program planning, preparation of bilateral agreements, assessment and reporting, and other 'special' activities, i.e., training, translation, special initiatives, disaster relief, donor coordination, and official visits. The Executive Office manages the Missions' information systems, personnel policies, motor pool, and business center (diplomatic pouch, etc.). The Acquisition and Assistance Office handles the formation of all grants and contracts and is a point of contact on all matters related to the administration of such. The Financial Management Office is responsible for all vouchers and payments as well as analysis of the financial performance of the program.

Project: NetMark	SO: Health and Child Survival
Project time line: 1999-2007
Project principal contact(s): Vacant, Country Coordinator; Mbaye Khouma, Regional Manager; David McGuire, Project Director (AED Washington)
Project objective:
NetMark Plus represents the cutting edge in public/private partnerships for sustainable business and development. NetMark Plus is designed to reduce the impact of malaria in sub-Saharan Africa through the increased use and sustainable supply of insecticide treated mosquito nets through partnership and joint investment with a wide range of international and local commercial partners. NetMark represents USAID's primary investment in as a Roll Back Malaria partner for the scaling up of ITN use in Africa.
Project key activities:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • increased support to local distributors that will help to bridge the gap between supply and demand at the retail level; • accessing transnational distribution and promotion networks through partnership with consumer marketing companies that are able to reach into thousands of outlets across the continent; • advocacy for supportive policies such as removal of ITN taxes and tariffs; • supporting expanded capacity for and quality of local ITN production among African-based manufacturers; • promotion of improved ITN technologies by supporting net and treatment manufacturers as they accelerate the development of long-lasting and permanently treated nets and longer-lasting net treatments.

Project principal contact(s): Mark Ketcham, Susan Bouldin, AED
Project objective:
AED has recently been awarded the USAID-funded START contract, which succeeds the Global Training for Development contract (GTD), which we have implemented since 1996. Under GTD, AED assisted USAID in conducting needs assessments, developing training plans, and strengthening its monitoring and evaluation systems. We have designed and implemented short- and long-term training in areas such as: economic growth, education, NGO development, private enterprise development, health and population, the environment, agriculture, democracy, and governance and public administration. START expands the portfolio of services provided under GTD to include, among other areas, development of local institutional capacity, conflict prevention and mitigation, and distance learning. Training programs are conducted in the United States, in-country, and in third countries.
Project key activities: USAID's Africa Bureau requested that AED provide needs assessments and training plan development in South Africa, Mali, Ethiopia, and Zambia. AED is conducting assessments, institutional analyses, training plans, and will implement a limited number of short-term, quick impact training programs in agriculture training and capacity development. The overall focus of this work is to strengthen agriculture-related NGOs in these selected countries.
Project geographic coverage: Mali
USAID principal contact: Ethel Brooks, Cognizant Technical Officer, Mr. Thomas Hobgood, EGAT/AG

Basics and SAGE/Mali, which used to have project offices and activities in Mali, have both ceased operations as of March 31, 2004 for BASICS and August 31, 2003 for SAGE/Mali. Linkages does not have on the ground presence in Mali, though they offer technical assistance through the USAID Global Health bureau to Mali and other countries in West Africa.

Project: CLIC –Community Learning and Information Centers

SO: ComDev

Project time line: September 2005 to November 2006

Project principal contact(s): Aminata Maiga Fofana, Director

Project objective:

Provide reliable public access to a wide range of development related information through ICT. The community Learning and Information Centers are designed to meet community needs and actively support development objectives of the Government of Mali and USAID/Mali.

Project key activities:

Under the CLIC project, thirteen telecenters have established across Mali, from Kidal in the north to Kangaba in the south. The CLICs are public fee-for-use access centers where people can use e-mail, Internet, telephone, do word processing, receive computer training, listen to radio via World Space receivers etc. The CLICs are also offering digital, paper-based and audio content in the main strategic objective areas of USAID - namely health, education (teacher training), agribusiness, and civil society/governance. In this regard, the CLICs will also be encouraged to catalyze the development of local content and share this information with the other CLICs.

Each of the CLICs is being sponsored by an SO team at the Mali Mission and is operated by a local Malian organization that corresponds with that SO. It is important to note that all 13 CLICs must offer content in all the SO areas and be open to all residents of their particular communities. The CLICs are also encouraged to partner with local radio stations so as to expand the coverage and impact of the content (and in fact, two of the CLICs are operated by radio stations in Kadiolo at Radio Folona and in Djenne at radio Jamana).
