OVERVIEW

USAID UNVEILS A NEW ONLINE SYSTEM FOR THE REGISTRATION OF PRIVATE VOLUNTARY ORGANIZATIONS

INTRODUCTION

This past year has been an exciting one for USAID and the foreign assistance community. The new Obama Administration has committed to advancing the cause of international development and has sought to double the amount of U.S. Government foreign assistance in the Administration's 2010 budget request.

USAID's Registry of U.S. and international Private Voluntary Organizations (PVOs) has also seen exciting developments during the past year. The Private and Voluntary Cooperation Division in the Office of Development Partners (ODP/PVC) manages the Agency's registration policy and the PVO registration process. To further streamline registration, a new online registration system was developed and put into operation in 2008. PVOs can now submit registration materials and updates electronically.

The online registration system replaces the registration process set forth in 22 CFR Part 203 that required postal mailing of USAID forms I 550-2 and 200-1. The new system has eliminated the need to complete paper forms, streamlined the PVO registration process, and should reduce the time it takes to submit registration materials. The new process should also increase the accuracy of the data submitted, since USAID will no longer be required to manually transfer information from forms to the database. In addition, the system performs checks on various sections of the online submission to ensure that the data provided reconciles within each section and with matching data in other sections. This feature helps USAID confirm that submissions are complete and correct before they are submitted, thus reducing time-consuming follow-up efforts. Submitted information is maintained in the system and will be in place to update the following year, eliminating the need to submit all new data each year, as was required under the paper-based process.

The online registration system provides USAID and the public with a more comprehensive view of PVO activities within a specific geographic region via the online PVO Registry. The process of developing and improving the online system is ongoing, and PVC welcomes any feedback or suggestions to enhance the system.

2009 VOLAG REPORT

The Report of Voluntary Agencies Engaged in Overseas Relief and Development (VolAg Report) provides a snapshot of the work of the U.S. and international PVOs that are registered with USAID. As defined by USAID (see 22 CFR 203.2), a PVO is a tax-exempt, nonprofit organization working in international development that receives some portion of its annual support from the private sector (demonstrating its private nature) and also receives voluntary contributions of money, staff time, or in-kind support from the general public (demonstrating its voluntary nature). PVOs register with USAID to establish and maintain eligibility to compete for grants and cooperative agreements. Information about registration can be found at www.usaid.gov | Keyword: PVO Registration.

The 2009 VolAg Report includes a brief description and a summary of financial activities for the 563 U.S. PVOs, 71 international PVOs, and six U.S. Cooperative Development Organizations (CDOs) registered with USAID as of March 31, 2009. The information contained in this report is also available through the online PVO Registry, a searchable database that is updated daily, on the USAID Web site at www.usaid.gov | Keyword: PVO Registry.

USAID REGISTRATION DATA REFLECTED IN TWO NEW PUBLICATIONS ON PRIVATE CONTRIBUTIONS

USAID registration data was utilized in two publications on PVOs during 2009: the Hudson Institute's Center for Global Prosperity's fourth annual Index of Global Philanthropy and Remittances and Rachel M. McCleary's book Global Compassion: Private Voluntary Organizations and U.S. Foreign Policy Since 1939.

As reported by the Hudson Institute in its new study, PVOs contributed $10.8 billion in private funding to the developing world in 2007. The USAID database of U.S. and international PVOs registered with the Agency was instrumental to determining the dollar value of international development and humanitarian assistance program activities implemented by PVOs. In collaboration with the Urban Institute's Center on Nonprofits and Philanthropy, the Institute also used information from the 2008 VolAg Report, which ODP/PVC produced.

The USAID database of U.S. PVOs registered with the Agency was an important resource for McCleary's book, which explores the funding relationship between PVOs and the U.S.

Government. Dr. McCleary, a Senior Research Fellow at the Center for International Development, John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University, and Research Fellow of the Hoover Institution of Stanford University, used USAID's PVO registration database in her study of the quantity and type of Federal funds received for overseas projects by registered PVOs from 1939 to 2003. Global Compassion analyzes the nature of the relationship between PVOs and U.S. foreign policy and the extent to which the Federal Government influences the PVO mission and operations.

U.S. PVOs received $19.5 billion in support from U.S. citizens and private sources, more than seven times the $2.7 billion from USAID.

LEVERAGING PRIVATE RESOURCES FOR DEVELOPMENT

PVOs and local nongovernmental organizations help USAID support local capacities to address local needs, bringing additional resources to bear and facilitating sustainable development worldwide. By enlisting the PVO community's expertise and program delivery capacities, USAID is better able to direct humanitarian relief and development assistance to areas of need. As the data presented in this report indicate, the privately generated resources that PVOs spend on international development activities far exceed the resources they receive from USAID or the U.S. Government.

During fiscal year 2007, U.S. PVOs registered with USAID received $19.5 billion in support from non-U.S. Government and private sources, more than seven times the $2.7 billion that USAID channeled to USAID registered PVOs. Other U.S. Government agencies and international organizations provided an additional $3.9 billion, bringing the total private and public support and revenue for registered U.S. PVOs to $26 billion.

For non-U.S. PVOs, USAID provided more than $89 million to registered international PVOs in 2007, augmenting their $2.2 billion in direct spending on international relief and development activities.

DOING BUSINESS WITH USAID

To implement its worldwide humanitarian and development activities, USAID uses various acquisition and assistance instruments, including contracts, grants, cooperative agreements, and purchase orders. USAID negotiates and initiates these instruments to obtain the commodities and technical assistance the Agency requires to achieve its objectives. Organizations seeking to work with USAID will find useful policy and business information at the following Web sites:

www.usaid.gov | Keyword: ADS

The Automated Directives System outlines USAID's policies and procedures. (See Chapter 303 - Grants and Cooperative Agreements.)

www.usaid.gov | Keyword: AAPDs

Acquisition and Assistance Policy Directives provide information on USAID's cost-sharing policy.

www.usaid.gov | Keyword: Forecast

Upcoming procurement opportunities with USAID's offices in Washington and overseas.

www.usaid.gov | Keyword: PVC

Information about the Private and Voluntary Cooperation Division, which manages the Agency's registration policy and the PVO registration process, as well as grant programs.

www.usaid.gov | Keyword: PVO Registry

Searchable database of PVOs currently registered with USAID.

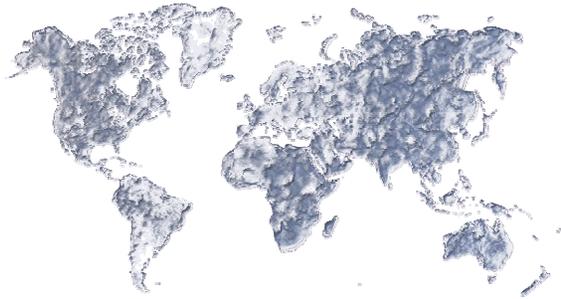

www.usaid.gov | Keyword: PVO Registration

Information about USAID's PVO registration process, including the Conditions of Registration and other materials that can assist with online registration.

The VolAg Report is the culmination of the annual effort by the Office of Development Partners' Private and Voluntary Cooperation Division staff to collect, validate, and disseminate a clear, factual report that helps inform the Congress, Agency staff, partner organizations, and the general public about the activities of the PVO community. We hope you find it a useful resource.

UNITED STATES

PRIVATE VOLUNTARY ORGANIZATIONS

REGISTRY

The rules governing the registration of nongovernmental, nonprofit agencies engaged in voluntary foreign aid are promulgated in the Code of Federal Regulations, Title 22, Part 203. The U.S. PVO Registry consists of the following agencies.

Descriptions of voluntary foreign aid activities were provided by USAID registered organizations.

3 CORD FOUNDATION IIICF

Reverend Tracey Goodner, Chairman and Founder

Promotes economic empowerment, education, and health. IIICF, a faith-based, 501(c)(3) organization, supports organizations that address the needs of low- to moderate-income individuals in Phoenix, Arizona, and in East Africa with financial and technical support. IIICF promotes social development through education, grant-writing training, and microloans. In Africa, the organization supports various projects, including direct cash grants to orphans and widows, vocational training, and poultry and other agricultural initiatives. IIICF supports HIV/AIDS education activities and has shipped books, school supplies, and other educational materials to areas of need.

A BETTER WORLD ABW

Mr. A. Moriel McClerklin, Executive Director

1130 South Michigan Avenue, Suite 4304
Chicago, IL 60605-2325

Empowers people to bring about permanent, positive social change. ABW's international programs focus on developing community infrastructure that creates sustainable living environments. ABW provides communities with the training and support needed to develop sustainable agriculture systems, establish economic cooperatives, and improve access to water. In conjunction with partners in Ghana, ABW has promoted food security by providing training and assistance in organic farming, health and well-being by drilling water boreholes and providing training in nutrition and maternal care, and economic opportunities by funding technical assistance for rice-milling operations. ABW also sponsors media-based HIV prevention projects targeting youth.

A CALL TO SERVE INTERNATIONAL ACTS

Dr. Patricia J. Blair, President

601 Business Loop 70 W, Suite 113
Columbia, MO 65203-1743

Promotes peace and understanding through institutional and individual capacity building via the exchange of ideas, information, and resources. In 1992, ACTS established the Republic of Georgia's first nonprofit humanitarian aid organization, ACTS-Georgia, which exemplifies institutional capacity building and enables Georgians to help Georgians through development and humanitarian aid. Diabetic care, emergency and disaster medicine, refugee assistance, and women's and children's health are priorities. Sister-city links between Columbia, Missouri, and K'ut'aisi, Georgia, encourage citizen diplomacy and focus on public administration, business, education, health, art, and culture. ACTS is successfully implementing a USAID child survival grant in Georgia. With funding from the Global Alliance for Improved Nutrition, ACTS and the Georgian Parliament are implementing a national program to fortify flour with iron and folic acid.

A SELF-HELP ASSISTANCE PROGRAM ASAP

Mr. Tom Arsenault, President

WEB: www.asapafrika.org

Works with communities in rural Africa to improve food security and household income and better care for the increasing numbers of orphaned children and people suffering from HIV/AIDS. Since 1994, ASAP has been strengthening communities by assisting people in their efforts to improve their lives through initiatives that alleviate poverty, deal with HIV/AIDS, improve food security, and improve rural education. Projects focus on village savings and microfinance lending, HIV/AIDS awareness, conservation farming, nutritional gardening, and the cultivation and use of the jatropha tree and medicinal herbs, such as moringa. ASAP also works to provide vocational and entrepreneurial life-skills training and improve the quality of education.

THE ACADEMY FOR EDUCATIONAL DEVELOPMENT AED

Mr. Stephen F. Moseley, President and CEO

Collaborates with hundreds of nongovernmental organizations to ship humanitarian aid free of charge or at cost through the commercial sector. It is the twin program to Admiral Denton's "Denton Amendment," operated by USAID. The foundation's TRANSFORM program has shipped thousands of tons of humanitarian aid to 18 countries and is especially proficient at outfitting schools. The foundation combats poverty by organizing educational opportunities and providing a sustainable educational system through in-kind donations. Its education and health care efforts have reduced the likelihood of the poor being drafted by terrorist movements or gangs. In addition to humanitarian aid and development, the foundation provides disaster mitigation services.

ADVENTIST DEVELOPMENT AND RELIEF

Ministers to the physical, emotional, and spiritual needs of people in Ghana and throughout the world. A Christian faith-based organization, ASI provides free medical and dental clinics to the poor and needy and supports medical activities (providing medical supplies, medicine, and dental care items) and health education workshops that address topics such as nutrition, breast cancer awareness, maternal and child care, and HIV/AIDS and STDs. The organization also supports educational projects, providing school supplies to female children (a traditionally under-schooled group in much of Africa) and books to help establish libraries. ASI's longer-term goal is to build and provide funding for a 250-bed medical center in the village of Ningo, Ghana.

Builds the capacity of rural villagers to cultivate and act on sustainable solutions to poverty by fostering village self-determination and international community building. CHOICE Humanitarian ignites lasting change in places suffering from the lack of simple human necessities such as clean water, education, health care, and opportunities to earn an income. A dynamic partnership of committed members, expert staff, and visionary villagers creates sustainable solutions to poverty through leadership building, project organizing, and networking. Villages eventually become "self-developing," which means they can solve their own poverty issues without assistance. This is CHOICE Humanitarian's goal and greatest success. The organization works primarily in Kenya, Bolivia, Mexico, and Guatemala. CHOICE Humanitarian also arranges expeditions that create opportunities to build partnerships and increase intercultural exchange.

Works to eradicate poverty and promote healing and reconciliation in Africa. CAV organizes groups of up to 30 women, primarily war widows, into community-banking cooperatives. The organization provides the groups with business training, and participants receive $100 start-up loans in addition to the sense of achievement and confidence that comes from running a small business. The community banks are self-sustaining and assist nearly 3,000 women who provide support for more than 15,800 children, many of whom are AIDS orphans. CAV also provides health-related programming and, over the past 11 years, has conducted peace and reconciliation activities in Rwanda, Burundi, and eastern Democratic Republic of the Congo. CAV is also working to foster healing through reconciliation activities in the war-torn central Africa region.

Teaches the world's poorest people to grow vegetables during the dry season. A person who can obtain 10 gallons of water a day for a kitchen garden can grow enough vegetables for a small family using drip irrigation—even when there is no rain. CLWF works in partnership with more than 2,000 organizations in more than 150 countries to demonstrate "Bucket Kit" drip irrigation. To reduce costs, the organization provides bulk drip-irrigation materials in container lots, so kits can be assembled in user countries. Larger systems are used in schools, hospitals, and orphanages and on small farms.

Improves the lives of impoverished children and their families and strengthens their communities. As a nonprofit humanitarian organization, Children International works primarily through child sponsorship, which unites children in need with individual sponsors who wish to help address the children's basic needs. With long-term sponsorship in their lives, poor children develop the tools necessary for success. Through benefits and supporting programs, Children International provides services in the areas of education, health, nutrition, material aid, and family assistance. In addition, Children International's youth program helps meet the unique needs of more than 135,000 sponsored adolescents through targeted training and educational opportunities, which also promote social responsibility. Children International's sponsorship program is benefiting more than 330,000 impoverished children, youth, and their families in 11 countries.

Improves the health and development of Haitian children—who can, in turn, raise Haiti from poverty. CNP Haiti has been working in Leogane Commune in partnership with Hôpital Sainte Croix to address malnutrition since 1998. CNP Haiti's community-based nutrition program follows the Positive Deviance/Hearth model, through which trained nutrition monitors teach caregivers to keep their children healthy with local foods and improved care behaviors. CNP Haiti follows the progress of children who participate in the program for six months. In 2008, eighty-seven percent of the children participating in the nutrition program were rehabilitated. The organization also implements clean water, immunization, and mobile clinic programs as well as a program to help communities manage acute malnutrition. CNP Haiti links mothers from its nutrition program with microfinance programs for an integrated approach to reducing hunger and malnutrition.

Supports the implementation of clean, economically sound energy projects that reach rural and urban populations in developing countries. E&Co is using its early-stage financing to demonstrate to investors in the public and private sectors that the establishment of sound, indigenous energy enterprises is a win-win solution to two problems: unmet demand for energy services in developing countries and climate change.

Providing investments from $50,000 to $250,000, E&Co has committed more than $35 million to 250 enterprises in Africa, Asia, and Latin America. E&Co has offices in Bolivia, Brazil, China, Costa Rica, Ghana, the Netherlands, South Africa, Tanzania, Thailand, and the United States.

Promotes environmental citizenship worldwide. With its network of more than 17,000 partners, 30,000 educators, and organizations in 174 countries, EDN organizes millions of people each year to learn about the environment and take action to protect it. To improve environmental education, EDN offers tools for integrating environmental issues into the core curriculum. To build alliances, EDN connects and partners with organizations working toward public involvement in environmental policy. To encourage citizen action, EDN promotes public and private action around specific environmental issues. To build capacity, EDN supplies resources, tools, and direct assistance for developing and implementing successful Earth Day campaigns. The organization's campaigns and programs are predicated on the belief that an educated, energized population will take action to secure a healthy future for itself and its children.

Fights poverty in developing countries through microenterprise development. Five Talents-U.S.A. identifies and supports partnering organizations that work in the area of microenterprise development and that serve their communities with integrity and transparency. The organization combats poverty in the developing world by providing poor people with funds to start small businesses; equipping churches and other organizations to help the poor start businesses; showing Christ's love and mercy in thought, word, and deed; and affirming human dignity. Five Talents-U.S.A. has provided business training and funded thousands of microloans in 19 countries in Africa, Asia, and Latin America. A majority of the organization's loan recipients are women, and each loan provides financing to a business that, in turn, impacts at least six other people.

Provides lasting environmental solutions to humanitarian problems in places around the world where poverty is caused by deforestation. Floresta USA partners with communities in Burundi, the Dominican Republic, Haiti, Mexico, Tanzania, and Thailand to heal the relationship between people and their environment. Floresta USA uses holistic community development, agroforestry, sustainable agriculture, and microenterprise credit programs to improve the productivity of small farms while encouraging environmental sustainability, reforestation, and rehabilitation of degraded land. The organization also provides credit and business coaching and assists farmers with market access. With Floresta USA's assistance, millions of trees have been planted and thousands of farmers have been able to significantly increase both their standard of living and the long-term viability of their farms.

Alleviates hunger in some of the world's poorest communities by providing the resources necessary to empower people to feed themselves. FRB does not ship grain or food overseas; instead, the organization offers people dignity by giving them a hand up instead of a handout, thus breaking the cycle of dependency. As a Christian, nongovernmental, humanitarian organization, FRB provides sustainable food security in the developing world through small-scale agricultural interventions. Programs focus on education, the introduction of no-till alternatives, conservation, improved seeds and livestock, market access, water reclamation, food storage, and other techniques that will allow people to feed their families, send their children to school, and improve their quality of life. FRB's strategic goal is to engage the grassroots U.S. agricultural community in efforts to solve the problem of hunger worldwide.

Designs and distributes labor-saving and income-generating agricultural devices to improve life in developing countries. FBP provides technical training to local entrepreneurs, giving them the ability to manufacture FBP-designed machines that employ appropriate technologies to add value at the local level. Entrepreneurs work with kits (fiberglass molds, metal parts, etc.) to manufacture the Universal Nut Sheller, a simple, inexpensive, and portable machine that allows people to shell groundnuts (peanuts), a staple in many developing areas, and add value to coffee beans, shea nuts, and jatropha and neem seeds, which are important cash crops. The devices free people, particularly women, from the time-consuming task of hand shelling. FBP also provides training to help recipients assemble, operate, and maintain the machines.

Supports the health care work of Lutheran churches in developing countries by gathering and shipping medical supplies and equipment, funding projects, consulting on health program management and development, and recruiting U.S. workers for short-term overseas service. GHM's projects focus on training and development of health care and health management personnel, development of integrated community-based primary health programs, and rural health center construction and support. The organization works to prevent malaria, tuberculosis, HIV/AIDS, and other sexually transmitted diseases and to develop sources of clean water. GHM extends support to numerous efforts, including maternal and child health projects, facility upgrades, and hospice and charity care programs. GHM reaches out to more than 29 countries in Central America, East Asia and the Pacific region, South Asia, and sub-Saharan Africa.

Reduces water-related illness and death in developing countries by building self-sustaining projects that make safe drinking water accessible to the poor and empowers local churches to bring physical, social, and spiritual healing to their communities. The communities targeted by HWI are often overlooked for aid because they have municipal water systems in place. Unfortunately, many of these systems deliver contaminated water, and commercially bottled water is a luxury the poor cannot afford. Attributes of HWI's water programs include the following: (1) projects are financially self-sustaining through water sales; (2) the water is tested monthly to guarantee purity; (3) bottle-rinsing equipment ensures that clean water doesn't go into dirty containers; (4) accountability systems allow donors to monitor the ongoing performance of their projects; and (5) revenues help fund additional community service projects.

Inspires people and mobilizes communities and global resources to improve health. HH works through partnerships with local institutions to identify health problems, plan and implement effective interventions, develop needed skills, and continually improve by reflecting on learning. Currently, HH has projects in Bangladesh, China, Ecuador, Mongolia, and the United States. The organization's projects fall under two program areas: technical training and health systems development. HH's technical training program offers surgical training, clinical training, lectures in various medical specialties, and sponsorship of medical fellowships. As health care professionals are trained in advanced medical techniques, they acquire skills to facilitate knowledge dissemination, group consultation, and consensus building among their colleagues.

Works with people around the world to end hunger and poverty and care for the environment. Since its founding in 1944, HPI has helped more than 10 million people gain self-reliance. Project participants are given animals and plants that suit their needs, such as cows, goats, sheep, llamas, water buffaloes, bees, and tree seedlings. Participants also receive training in sustainable agriculture and livestock management. Each recipient "passes on the gift" of animal offspring, seeds, skills, or other resources to neighbors in need, a practice that multiplies the impact of the original gift. Projects emphasize self-reliance, education, gender equity, protection of the environment, agro-ecology, and animal well-being. In addition, HPI focuses on local, international, and global policy change in key areas such as sustainable agriculture, food security, gender equity, environment, and livestock issues.

Provides wheelchairs and other mobility aids to the disabled poor in developing countries. Hope Haven's innovative, volunteer-intensive, cost-effective program collects discarded wheelchairs and refurbishes and delivers them to poor people in 105 countries. Supplying wheelchairs is a critical first step to empowering some of the world's most dependent citizens, as mobility provides access to education, job training, and employment. Hope Haven manufactures new pediatric wheelchairs for children with severely disabling conditions, since the supply of children's wheelchairs does not meet the overwhelming need. The organization also spearheads a global network of individuals, relief agencies, and government leaders committed to the needs of the estimated 60 million disabled people worldwide in need of a wheelchair.

Provides and supports solutions to health care problems in the developing world. For more than 28 years, IA has partnered with government, the private sector, and civil society to improve health service delivery in resource-poor settings. Major strategies focus on disease control for blindness prevention, tuberculosis, HIV/AIDS, and malaria; health delivery systems at clinics and hospitals; community-based health care; disaster response and preparedness; and health commodity support. IA touches lives in more than 170 countries and maintains field offices in Ghana, Honduras, and the Philippines. Recent emergency relief efforts were completed in Burma (Myanmar), Honduras, the Philippines, and Thailand.

Helps sustain life and bring encouragement to suffering people. ICA collaborates with other relief organizations to bring necessary food, material, and medicine to people in times of crisis, particularly where life and death situations exist. To accomplish its mission, ICA targets its efforts in "no-go" zones, places where other organizations cannot or will not go. Since 2000, ICA programs and services have reached out to children and families in need in Afghanistan, Cambodia, Ethiopia, Indonesia, Pakistan, North Korea, and Sudan. The organization feeds hungry people and addresses medical and community development needs. ICA also supports orphanages, girls' schools, and programs that rescue girls from sex trafficking.

Improves the lives of the rural poor in developing nations through agricultural and economic development. IDE's guiding principle is that the rural poor are natural entrepreneurs who, if given the opportunity, will invest their limited resources to ensure their families' food supply and generate income. IDE empowers rural farmers to pull themselves out of poverty by making available quality inputs, training, affordable technologies, capital, and access to markets. Simple, low-cost water technologies increase income generation by allowing farmers to cultivate high-value, labor-intensive crops. These technologies have enabled families to become more efficient agricultural producers, generally doubling their net annual income in the first year. IDE's efforts have helped some 17 million people escape poverty.

Trains grassroots leaders through intercommunity organizer internships and empowers baseline stakeholders from every sector to democratically develop empowerment corps that are operated by local youth, women, and the unemployed. Interns, who are usually leaders from marginally resistant conflict groups, are given social entry as aid workers and educators with nongovernmental organizations and schools. Many of the interns are poor and, through example, become role models for sustainable self-help poverty reduction. They mentor using traditional religious texts, transforming hate to tolerance. IFP builds a culture of human rights, democracy, tolerance, and peace in the conflict-prone streets of Africa, the Americas, Asia, Europe, and the Middle East.

Provides lifesaving and life-sustaining humanitarian aid to the poorest of the poor in unserved and underserved regions of the United States and the world. M25M is a nondenominational, ecumenical, interfaith ministry that rescues and reuses landfill-bound inventories of excess clothing, personal care and hygiene products, building and school supplies, sewing materials, and medical supplies donated by U.S. corporations, organizations, hospitals, schools, and individuals. After it processes the intercepted goods at its 132,000 square-foot headquarters in Cincinnati, Ohio, M25M distributes the humanitarian aid via 40-foot seaborne containers to the poorest of the poor throughout the United States and in remote villages, hospitals, clinics, orphanages, and schools around the world. Additionally, M25M funds infrastructure and building improvements in numerous rural, poverty-stricken villages in Nicaragua.

Works in cooperative partnerships to preserve plants, animals, and natural communities that represent the diversity of life by protecting the lands and waters they depend on for survival. TNC developed and uses a strategic, science-based planning process called Conservation by Design, which helps the organization identify the highest-priority places: landscapes and seascapes that, if conserved, will continue to provide important natural services for people and nature. Through the use of sound science, a collaborative approach, and the careful use of financial resources, TNC is able to achieve meaningful, lasting conservation results worldwide.

Improves community health and promotes sustainable development through programs developed and implemented in collaboration with local partners. Founded in 1961, PCI currently serves more than 4.5 million people annually through programs based in 15 countries in Africa, the Americas, and Asia. PCI's programs focus on integrated, community-based solutions built on interventions combining food and nutrition security, disease prevention, maternal and child health, water and sanitation, economic empowerment, and capacity building and institutional strengthening. PCI's humanitarian assistance programs are viewed as long-term development opportunities with a focus on disaster prevention and community preparedness rather than short-term relief. Programs are designed to equip and empower vulnerable individuals, families, and communities so that together they can play an active role in achieving lives of opportunity, hope, and health.

Designs, produces, distributes, and manufactures pediatric wheelchairs and other rehabilitation devices for disabled children in developing countries. In addition, ROC Wheels empowers people by helping to establish wheelchair manufacturing operations in communities with limited opportunities. It is estimated that 6.7 million children in developing countries require wheelchairs for mobility. However, few children have wheelchairs, and even fewer have one that fits individual needs. ROC Wheels develops wheelchairs for children up to age 15, regardless of their level of disability. The organization realizes that correctly fitted wheelchairs will help children gain independence, interact with peers, and become more active community members. ROC Wheels' ultimate goal is to help people help themselves.

Enables donors to support effective nonprofit organizations in Latin America and the Caribbean. TRF strives to empower the region's disadvantaged—so they have the skills, knowledge, and opportunities they need to improve their lives—by facilitating partnerships between local nonprofits and the private sector (corporations, foundations, and individuals). Through its network of more than 160 nonprofits in 23 countries, TRF supports programs that increase self-reliance and living standards through activities in the following areas: affordable housing, capacity building, culture, disaster relief, education and job-skills training, the environment, health care and HIV/AIDS, microenterprise, potable water and sanitation, and sustainable agriculture. TRF provides an array of philanthropic services to donors and local nonprofits, including due diligence, consulting, funds transfers, monitoring and evaluation, networking, and volunteerism.

Seeks to improve the health and well-being of people and the planet. A 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization, TRI creates global solutions from the ground up. TRI's soil scientists and a cooperating network of researchers have documented that organic farming techniques offer the best solution to global warming and famine. The organization's Farming Systems Trial®, the longest-running U.S. study comparing organic and conventional farming techniques, is the basis for practical training provided to thousands of farmers in Africa, the Americas, and Asia. TRI brings an entrepreneurial spirit to its working formula, Healthy Soil = Healthy Food = Healthy People®, and fosters innovative farming and food systems through online and hands-on training. TRI's study findings are clear: A global organic transformation will mitigate greenhouse gas emissions in the atmosphere and restore soil fertility.

Works to end illegal child labor in the carpet industry in India and Nepal. To this end, RugMark Foundation monitors carpet production, certifies and labels carpets as child-labor free, educates former child workers, and raises public awareness about child labor in the carpet-making industry. The foundation's operations are supported by industry licensee payments as well as through charitable gifts and contributions from private foundations and individuals. RugMark Foundation contracts with carpet-importing companies, and under the terms of these contracts, the companies agree to pay 1.75 percent of the cost of carpet shipments to the foundation on a quarterly basis. The majority of the licensing revenue is remitted to carpet-producing countries to support rehabilitation and educational programs in South Asia.

Works to address the causes, conduct, and consequences of armed conflicts by providing physical rehabilitation services to landmine survivors as well as to people with disabilities. VFA accomplishes its mission by operating rehabilitation programs in Cambodia and Vietnam and by providing technical support for related work in Central America. VFA's Information Management and Mine Action Programs provide the United Nations and other international agencies with technical assistance to identify landmines and unexploded ordnance in post-conflict environments. In June 2006, VFA launched the Veterans for America program to specifically address the acute needs of the increasing number of veterans returning from Iraq and Afghanistan. VFA cofounded and coordinated the International Campaign to Ban Landmines, which received the 1997 Nobel Peace Prize.

Mobilizes communities to care for their most vulnerable members: orphans and widows. Using its Empowerment-Change Model, Village Care International works with communities to mobilize and advance sustainable change in remote African villages. The four-stage self-reliance program promotes cost effectiveness, community involvement and ownership, indigenous leadership and reliance on local resources, and the involvement of diverse religious groups and leaders. The program is run primarily by volunteers, invests significant human and financial resources to training and mentoring, and focuses on outcomes rather than quantity of services provided. Village Care International seeks to mobilize communities around the idea that all children, particularly orphans and vulnerable children, should be safe, healthy, living in loving homes, succeeding in school, and respected in their communities.

Works in partnership with organizations throughout the world that share its mission of improving lung health. WLF cooperates closely with agencies working in the field of tuberculosis control, such as the STOP TB Partnership and the World Health Organization (WHO). In particular, WLF partners with the International Union Against Tuberculosis and Lung Disease (the Union), a nonprofit scientific organization and registered IPVO that has played a leading role in the fight against tuberculosis and other lung diseases since 1920. Research by the Union led to the development of DOTS, the internationally recommended TB control strategy that has been adopted by the WHO for treatment and control of tuberculosis worldwide. WLF partners with the Union to ensure wider and wiser application of DOTS and to create new strategies to fight TB.

Applies science to animal welfare and disaster management initiatives and policies. For example, during Cyclone Nargis, WSPA sat on U.N. Cluster Committees and provided direct veterinary care and food to livestock needed to plow for the rice crop, helping avert a larger humanitarian crisis. WSPA regularly works with U.N. agencies and the Red Cross movement to link animal welfare with other issues, such as sustainable development. WSPA campaigns on a range of animal rights matters, including the Canadian seal hunt, farm animal welfare, whaling, and the international transportation of horses. WSPA is the world's largest network of animal protection specialists. The organization has 14 regional offices, ties to more than 1,000 member societies in 142 countries, and more than 400,000 individual supporters. WSPA is the only animal welfare organization with consultative status at the United Nations and the Council of Europe.

Provides educational and economic development opportunities and basic health care to the people of Yei and Morobo Counties in Southern Sudan. There is no better investment in the future of a country than in the education of its people. Many children have been scattered in the conflict-affected areas of Southern Sudan. Furthermore, the few schools that remain in operation lack funding and resources. YEDA's first priority is to provide basic education to these displaced children. Additionally, YEDA is committed to building a strong infrastructure and to helping the people of Southern Sudan become economically self-reliant. Through development, the children of Southern Sudan will have more access to education and a secure future.

ZAMBIA'S SCHOLARSHIP FUND

Supports a continuous cycle of education at all levels of the education system in rural and impoverished areas of Zambia. Zambia's Scholarship Fund encourages primary school students to excel at their studies and provides funds so poor students can attend high school. The Fund also provides scholarships to students at two-year teacher-training colleges and helps pay the wages of newly graduated teachers that accept positions at rural elementary schools, thus providing assistance through the entire education cycle. In addition, the Fund acquires, ships, and distributes educational material to schools in Zambia's Northern Province.

Fights hunger by providing emergency assistance, by linking relief and development, and by intervening in post-crisis contexts in five areas of expertise: nutrition; food security; health, including mental health and health care practices; water, sanitation, and hygiene; and advocacy on hunger-related issues. ACF intervenes either before a crisis through disaster preparedness programs, during a crisis through emergency programs, or after a crisis through rehabilitation programs. Together with its four sister organizations, ACF is part of the ACF International Network, which operates in some 40 countries worldwide. ACF International adheres to a charter of principles on which its humanitarian work is founded: independence, neutrality, nondiscrimination, free and direct access to affected populations, professionalism, and transparency.

Fights poverty worldwide. Formed in 1972, ActionAid is an international development agency that last year helped more than 13 million of the world's poorest people in more than 40 countries. ActionAid is owned by national affiliates working with partners in Africa, the Americas, Asia, and Europe. In December 2003, the organization established a secretariat in Johannesburg, South Africa. ActionAid works with local partners, helping poor women and men gain their rights to food, education, human security, just and democratic governance, and health care. The organization's 350,000 supporters share its commitment, providing 70 percent of its income. ActionAid's partners range from small community groups to international networks, and its national and international campaigns highlight issues that affect poor people, influencing the way that governments and international institutions work.

Contributes to peace building by professionally reporting news that is useful and factual to populations that are victims of violence or natural disaster and are otherwise cut off from independent media reports. Fondation Hironnelle Media for Peace and Human Dignity believes that independently reported impartial information can help cultivate the conditions necessary for conflict-ravaged countries to return to peace and democracy. The organization grew out of a 1994 initiative by a group of Swiss journalists who launched Radio Agatashya in the aftermath of the Rwandan genocide. Fondation Hironnelle Media for Peace and Human Dignity has operated similar media projects, in collaboration with the United Nations and on its own, in the Central African Republic, the Democratic Republic of the Congo, East Timor, Kosovo, Liberia, Sierra Leone, Sudan, and Tanzania.

Conducts both manual and mechanical demining and has more than 7,000 deminers and 150 mechanical clearance devices at work. The HALO Trust is the world's oldest and largest humanitarian mine-clearance organization. The HALO Trust has a strong ethos of local capacity development and on average employs only one international staff member for every 150 national staff members. The organization is constantly seeking new ways to develop faster and safer ways to clear landmines and has been successful at adapting proven technology for mine clearance. The HALO Trust works in Afghanistan, Angola, Cambodia, Georgia, Kosovo, Mozambique, Nagorno-Karabakh, Somaliland, and Sri Lanka. In 2004, The HALO Trust started a Weapons and Ammunition Disposal Program to support the disarmament, demobilization, and reintegration process in Afghanistan and Angola.

Assists divided societies to build lasting peace. Interpeace, an international peace-building organization, partners with local institutions composed of nationals from the country concerned to facilitate dialogue with all sectors of society. This approach enables populations directly affected by conflict to rebuild trust; define priorities for social, economic, and political rehabilitation; find consensus-based solutions to conflict; and assist with implementation of these solutions. Created as the U.N. pilot War-torn Societies Project, Interpeace became an independent nongovernmental organization in 2000. It remains a close partner of the United Nations and can implement Interpeace-style programming through the United Nations via the Joint Programme Unit for UN/Interpeace Initiatives. Interpeace currently supports locally led programs in 15 areas in Africa, Asia, Central America, Europe, and the Middle East.

Reaches out to more than 16,000 children each month through 4 core programs: Education, Food and Nutrition, HIV/AIDS Care, and Infrastructure. ChildsLife's projects provide school meals, assist schools with educational materials, construct classrooms, create water systems, and improve living conditions at children's homes. The organization's target group consists of abandoned children, street children, the AIDS orphaned, and those who are destitute. ChildsLife provides support and feeding programs for HIV-positive mothers and works with local governments and numerous grassroots organizations. ChildsLife believes that the most effective way to help a child is to provide those things that have a direct impact upon his or her life. The organization's aim is to offer practical solutions for those in need. Headquartered in the Netherlands, ChildsLife works throughout the world, with its largest programs in Africa and Eastern Europe.

Improves the well-being of vulnerable populations in developing countries by improving animal health and production. VSF-Belgium's activities are developed with local partners and beneficiaries, in both development and emergency contexts. Beneficiaries participate in project development, management, and decision making. Field activities include disease eradication, developing decentralized animal health networks, training livestock herders in animal health and business skills, livestock marketing, dairy production, conflict prevention, water development, drought risk mitigation, and natural resource management. Programs have a strong capacity-building focus to ensure long-term sustainability. Cooperation with public or private organizations and local groups is encouraged. To increase solidarity, the organization raises awareness of international development issues in Europe. VSF-Belgium is a founding member of the VSF-Europa network.

Facilitates large-scale, community-based animal health programs as well as livestock development interventions to enable income generation in Africa. VSF-Suisse was founded as a humanitarian, charitable, politically and religiously neutral organization to provide veterinary aid to areas where it is most needed. VSF-Suisse works primarily for and with people who depend on animals for their sustenance. The organization trains farmers, supports veterinary institutions, and works to establish associations that promote respect for animals and efficient management of natural resources. VSF-Suisse is also active in regions that have experienced natural disasters as well as areas of armed conflict. VSF-Suisse's experience in these circumstances has provided it with specific knowledge and expertise that is essential for successful short-term relief interventions.

Works in the field of international development. Incorporated in 1957, WUSC is governed by a board of directors that brings together representatives from educational institutions, training organizations, WUSC alumni, and campus-based committees from across Canada. During the past decade, WUSC has evolved into one of the largest Canadian nongovernmental organizations involved in the implementation of technical assistance and training programs. WUSC currently implements and manages projects in Africa, Asia, and Latin America. Uniterra, a joint program of WUSC and the Centre for International Studies, mobilizes more than 1,000 volunteers from Canada and 13 developing countries to work to reduce poverty through innovative partnerships. Farm Radio International (FRI) and WUSC have entered into a partnership that is enhancing FRI's mission of supporting African radio broadcasters to strengthen small-scale farming and rural communities.

COOPERATIVE DEVELOPMENT ORGANIZATIONS

REGISTRY

CDOs as part of the larger PVO community will be listed in the U.S. PVO Registry. In order to be listed in the Registry as a CDO, the CDO must comply with the annual documentation requirements in the Code of Federal Regulations, Title 22, Part 203. The following CDOs are included in the U.S. PVO Registry.

Descriptions of voluntary foreign aid activities were provided by USAID registered organizations.

ACDI/VOCA

Mr. Carl Leonard, President and CEO

50 F Street NW, Suite 1075

Washington, DC 20001

TEL: (202) 879-0610

FAX: (202) 783-7204

EMAIL: oahmed@acdiovoca.org

WEB: www.acdivoca.org

Expands economic opportunities and creates vibrant civil society in developing and transitioning countries. By providing technical and management assistance, ACDI/VOCA enables organizations—whether enterprises, financial institutions, or farm cooperatives—to manage and finance themselves and succeed in the global economy. Areas of expertise include food security, agribusiness, enterprise development, financial services, and community development. Long known for agricultural development and food security work, ACDI/VOCA has more recently gained prominence for its value chain approaches to economic development, for establishing sustainable financial institutions, and for its participatory community-strengthening activities, especially in conflict-affected areas. ACDI/VOCA implements 100 projects in 45 countries on behalf of public, private, and multilateral funders. (ACDI/VOCA is not an acronym; it is the organization's name.)

AMERICAS ASSOCIATION OF COOPERATIVE/ MUTUAL INSURANCE SOCIETIES, INC. AAC/MIS

Mr. Edward Potter, Executive Director

8201 Greensboro Drive, Suite 300

McLean, VA 22102-3810

TEL: (703) 245-8077

FAX: (703) 610-9021

EMAIL: info@aacmis.org

WEB: www.aacmis.org

Offers support and assistance to cooperative and mutually owned insurance companies so they can reach and serve uninsured, low-income populations in Latin America and the Caribbean. By forming cooperative and mutual insurance companies through credit unions, cooperatives, labor unions, and farmers groups, AAC/MIS members create a sustainable and highly effective way to develop appropriate insurance products for the personal and business risks of low-income people.

CHF INTERNATIONAL CHF

Mr. Michael Doyle, CEO

8601 Georgia Avenue, Suite 800

Silver Spring, MD 20910

TEL: (301) 587-4700

FAX: (301) 587-7315

EMAIL: mailbox@chfinternational.org

WEB: www.chfinternational.org

Stimulates long-lasting positive change in low- and moderate-income communities around the world, helping them to improve their social, economic, and environmental conditions. Using a participatory, demand-driven approach, CHF International has worked in 115 countries since 1952, providing innovative development assistance that promotes local economic development and fosters grassroots community participation. Using businesslike approaches and democratic principles, CHF helps bolster the capacity of microenterprises, governments, cooperatives, and nongovernmental organizations to tackle social, environmental, and infrastructural issues on their own, while strengthening community participation and cohesion. CHF applies these principles effectively in many contexts, such as post-conflict emergency recovery and reconstruction, natural disaster response, mitigation of the HIV/AIDS pandemic, and focused assistance for low-income artisans.

NATIONAL COOPERATIVE BUSINESS ASSOCIATION NCBA

Mr. Paul Hazen, President and CEO

1401 New York Avenue NW, Suite 1100

Washington, DC 20005-2160

TEL: (202) 638-6222

FAX: (202) 638-1374

EMAIL: ncba@ncba.coop

WEB: www.ncba.coop

Provides technical assistance and training for the development of cooperatives, member-owned businesses, small enterprises, and microenterprises at the grassroots level, primarily in rural areas. Known overseas as the Cooperative League of the USA, the organization seeks to alleviate poverty through economic empowerment, democracy building, improved business skills, access to financing and information, and a cooperative approach to gain and protect market access for the rural poor. Recently, NCBA has applied its approach to community-managed health and sustainable natural resource use as well as to strengthening local organizations and local governments to support cooperative economic development.

NATIONAL RURAL ELECTRIC COOPERATIVE ASSOCIATION NRECA

Mr. Glenn English, Jr., President

4301 Wilson Boulevard

Arlington, VA 22203-1860

TEL: (703) 907-5669

FAX: (703) 907-5512

EMAIL: vivek.talvadkar@nreca.coop

WEB: www.nreca.org

Designs and implements efficient and financially sustainable rural electrification systems worldwide and promotes the consumer-owned electric utility model to ensure electric service is responsive to local needs. NRECA draws on conventional and nonconventional technologies, develops low-cost design adaptations, and uses renewable energy resources where appropriate. Other services NRECA provides include developing national rural electrification plans and training local electric utility employees in electric utility management, accounting, engineering, operations, and maintenance. NRECA maintains offices in 5 countries and currently has projects in 12 countries. Domestic NRECA member cooperatives generate, transmit, and distribute electricity to more than 35 million consumers in the United States.

WORLD COUNCIL OF CREDIT UNIONS, INC.
WOCCU

Mr. Pete Crear, President and CEO

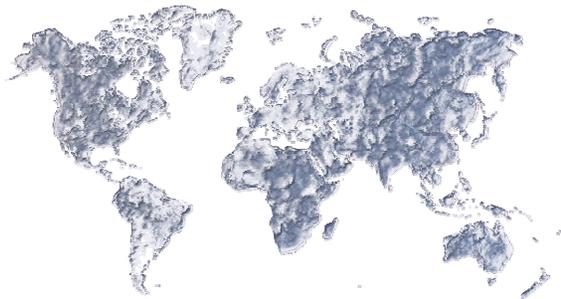

5710 Mineral Point Road
Madison, WI 53705
TEL: (608) 395-2000
FAX: (608) 395-2001
EMAIL: mail@woccu.org
WEB: www.woccu.org

Promotes the sustainable development of credit unions and other financial cooperatives around the world to empower people through access to high-quality and affordable financial services. WOCCU is the global trade association and development agency for credit unions. Since 1970, WOCCU has implemented more than 250 short- and long-term technical assistance programs. These technical assistance programs introduce new tools and technologies to strengthen credit unions' financial performance and increase their outreach. WOCCU also advocates on behalf of the global credit union system before international organizations and works with national governments to improve legislation and regulation. Worldwide, 49,000 credit unions in 96 countries serve more than 177 million people. In 2008, WOCCU's technical assistance programs reached more than 8 million people in 16 countries.
