About MEASURE DHS Publications

MEASURE DHS produces a wide variety of publications that provide country-specific, analytical, and comparative data on population, health, nutrition, and HIV in developing countries. Based on the results of Demographic and Health Surveys (DHS), the publications provide timely information for policymakers and program managers in survey countries, as well as population and health organizations and researchers throughout the world.

This is an abbreviated catalog of recent DHS publications, including final reports for DHS surveys, AIDS Indicator Surveys (AIS), Malaria Indicator Surveys (MIS), and Service Provision Assessment (SPA) surveys. A full listing of publications, including working papers, can be found on the DHS website: www.measuredhs.com.

Recent DHS, AIS, and MIS Final Reports

Final reports are published 8 to 12 months after fieldwork is completed. The reports include comprehensive survey results on topics such as fertility, family planning, maternal and child health, nutrition, and HIV and AIDS. AIS final reports provide information on knowledge, attitudes, and behaviors regarding HIV and AIDS and may include HIV prevalence data. MIS final reports provide information on a variety of malaria indicators.

All reports are in English unless otherwise noted. The following list includes surveys from 2006-present. The full list of publications is available at www.measuredhs.com.
