OVERVIEW

USAID WORKS TO ELEVATE DEVELOPMENT AND SEIZE PIVOTAL OPPORTUNITIES THROUGH EXPANDED PARTNERSHIPS WITH NONGOVERNMENTAL ORGANIZATIONS

INTRODUCTION

USAID Forward—the initiative to transform the United States Agency for International Development into a modern development enterprise—has entered its third year, and the Agency has made great strides in the effort to strengthen the Agency by embracing new partnerships, investing in the catalytic role of innovation and demanding a relentless focus on results. Taken together, the reforms have formed the foundation of a new model for development.

In his March 2013 annual letter, USAID Administrator Dr. Rajiv Shah reflected on President Obama's State of the Union call to join with the world in ending extreme poverty. Dr. Shah called it "an extraordinary moment," and pointed to the remarkable strides that have been made toward this goal in the last 20 years as well as the work that remains. "We cannot address the challenges alone, but we can mobilize movements," he said. "By working together...we can realize a world where every farmer has seeds, every child gets healthy food, basic medications, and a good education, and everyone has a say in their future." Later in his letter, Dr. Shah said that a new model is beginning to emerge that defines the way we work around the world. "We're moving from a traditional model of top-down development to a new model that engages talent and innovation everywhere to achieve extraordinary goals."

USAID Forward seeks to transform the way the Agency is working to meet the goals of ending extreme poverty, improving lives, and fostering prosperous, democratic nations. And the Grand Challenges for Development exemplify the ongoing effort to identify and support emerging technologies as well as traditional tools that can be reimagined and applied in new and innovative ways. The past year saw two new Grand Challenges for Development announced, both of which dovetail with the goals to end extreme poverty and seek out development ideas from all stakeholders.

First, the Grand Challenge for Development for Powering Agriculture seeks solutions that can provide smallholder farmers with clean energy solutions for irrigation, crop processing, cold storage, or other processes that boost production or increase the value of outputs. A second Grand Challenge for Development announced this year seeks to increase citizen engagement with government by supporting innovative solutions that use web and mobile technology to grow the global movement for open government, transparency, and accountability. Making All Voices Count seeks to bolster efforts to elevate government performance, help new democracies provide to their citizens, and promote inclusive development.

Grand Challenges for Development draw on the resources of multiple donors—governments, international institutions, corporate entities, and philanthropic organizations—and capabilities of the various stakeholders—nongovernmental organizations (NGOs), business associations, entrepreneurs, and anyone with a good idea for making development work. Private voluntary organizations (PVOs) have an important role to play in the effort to conceive new approaches to development, and USAID recognizes them as an integral component of the emerging paradigm that envisions, tests, and deploys the new ideas and technologies that are expanding the boundaries of what's possible.

To facilitate its humanitarian and development work, USAID registers PVOs so that they are eligible to compete for funding opportunities with the Agency, and the Local Sustainability Division in the Office of Innovation and Development Alliances (IDEA) is the Agency lead for the Registry of U.S. and international PVOs.

The purpose of PVO registration is to—

- Identify PVOs that engage in, or intend to engage in, voluntary foreign aid operations
- Determine whether PVOs meet certain general operating guidelines and accountability standards
- Certify that PVOs are eligible to apply for USAID assistance

USAID is continuing its efforts to expand partnerships with PVOs to support their direct activities as well as their work with local partners. In conjunction with its core registration role, IDEA's Local Sustainability Division is developing new outreach tools to facilitate connections between PVOs and the Agency, including web-based training materials for newly registered organizations, outreach events, and an e-newsletter to highlight partnership and funding opportunities. Overall, the Division's outreach efforts seek to enhance development outcomes by making the Agency more accessible and responsive.

2013 VOLAG REPORT

The Report of Voluntary Agencies Engaged in Overseas Relief and Development (VolAg Report) provides a snapshot of the work of the U.S. and international PVOs that are registered with USAID. As defined by USAID, a PVO is a tax-exempt, nonprofit organization that solicits and receives cash contributions from the general public and conducts, or anticipates conducting, international program activities that are consistent with U.S. Foreign Policy objectives (see 22 CFR 203.2 for complete definition). PVOs register with USAID to establish and maintain eligibility to compete for grants and cooperative agreements. Information about registration can be found at www.usaid.gov/pvo/

The 2013 VolAg Report includes a brief description and a summary of financial activities for the 595 U.S. PVOs, 112 international PVOs, and 6 U.S. Cooperative Development Organizations (CDOs) registered with USAID as of September 1, 2013. The information contained in this report is also available through the online PVO Registry, a searchable database that is updated daily, at pvo.usaid.gov/usaid/

PARTNERSHIP DEVELOPMENT

Partnerships are a central component of USAID's vision of a modern development enterprise and the Agency's ongoing major initiatives to increase effectiveness in meeting development objectives. Working closely with local implementing partners and building their capacity is a key aspect of the Agency's Local Solutions effort (formerly Implementation and Procurement Reform). The Local Sustainability Division is at the cutting edge of these efforts. The Division implements several programs that complement Local Solutions and works with and builds the capacity of local partners to strengthen local development outcomes.

IDEA's Local Sustainability Division leads the Agency's partnership building with PVOs, NGOs, and cooperatives. In this role, the Division—

- serves as an institutional bridge between the Agency and the PVO, NGO, and cooperative communities;
- provides support and services to Agency staff and partners that are developing strategic partnerships involving NGOs, PVOs, or cooperatives;
- informs Agency efforts to develop innovative, effective programs that strengthen PVOs, NGOs, and cooperatives in USAID partner countries; and U.S. PVOs received $21.1 billion in support from U.S. citizens and private sources, over 6 times the $3.1 billion from USAID.

- provides leadership on the Agency's outreach to the PVO, NGO, and cooperative communities as well as on policy formulation and issues of concern to these communities.

In addition to PVO Registration, the Division also manages the following programs:

The Development Grants Program (DGP) focuses on building and expanding partnerships with U.S. and local, in-country organizations that have little or no direct experience in working with USAID. The DGP program enables grantees to develop their organizational and technical capabilities while implementing innovative development activities in their home countries. Through the DGP, USAID aims to create stronger, flexible, and sustainable organizations that can rapidly respond to the evolving needs of those they serve. In addition to receiving funding for activities and institutional support, DGP grantees have access to capacity development support to enhance their organizational and/or technical capabilities. This support is nimble and customized to grantees' needs, with a focus on empowering local capacity-building service providers where possible.

The Cooperative Development Program (CDP) builds the intellectual capital of major partner U.S. cooperatives and cooperative development organizations and has led to notable achievements, including new research on cooperative law and regulation, the development of tools to measure cooperative development, and the creation of a Comprehensive Guide for Rural Electric Cooperative Development. The CDP enables partners to address critical challenges to cooperative development, to develop and test solutions and, where successful, to incorporate these solutions in their broader programs, creating substantial impact and a significant multiplier effect.

The Small Project Assistance Program (SPA) is a joint collaboration with the Peace Corps through which volunteers support USAID development efforts, helping to implement small self-help activities to support community-level development projects in sectors ranging from health to agriculture to small-enterprise development. SPA-sponsored projects focus on developing local community groups, including local associations, government entities, schools, and NGOs. Volunteers also work with NGOs to improve services to surrounding communities. Participants learn key development skills that encompass program design, implementation, monitoring and evaluation, integrated planning, and service delivery.

The Limited Excess Property Program (LEPP) enables USAID-registered PVOs to access government excess property for use in their overseas development programs. LEPP partners are able to obtain property, such as hospital beds, vehicles and computers, through access to the U.S. General Services Administration's and the Defense Logistics Agency's Disposition Services' excess property programs.

LEVERAGING PRIVATE RESOURCES FOR DEVELOPMENT

PVOs and local NGOs help USAID support local capacities to address local needs, bringing additional resources to bear and facilitating sustainable development worldwide. By enlisting the PVO community's expertise and program delivery capacities, USAID is better able to direct humanitarian relief and development assistance to areas of need. As the data presented in this report indicate, the privately generated resources that PVOs spend on international development activities far exceed the resources they receive from USAID or the U.S. Government.

During FY 2011, U.S. PVOs registered with USAID received $21.1 billion in support from non-U.S. Government and private sources, over six times the $3.1 billion that USAID channeled to USAID-registered PVOs. Other U.S. Government agencies and international organizations provided an additional $4.3 billion, bringing the total private and public support and revenue for registered U.S. PVOs to $28.5 billion.

USAID also provided more than $236 million to registered international PVOs in 2011, augmenting their $4 billion in direct spending on international relief and development activities. Meanwhile, U.S. CDOs received $331 million from USAID during 2011, as well as $374 million from other sources, to support their efforts to build and strengthen cooperative organizations overseas.

DOING BUSINESS WITH USAID

To implement its worldwide humanitarian and development activities, USAID uses a number of acquisition and assistance instruments, including contracts, grants, cooperative agreements, and purchase orders. USAID negotiates and initiates these instruments to obtain the commodities and technical assistance the Agency requires to achieve its objectives. Organizations seeking to work with USAID will find useful policy and business information at the following websites:

pvo.usaid.gov/usaid/

Registry of Private Voluntary Organizations – provides detailed information on PVOs currently registered with USAID via a searchable database.

The VolAg Report is the culmination of the annual effort by the Office of Innovation and Development Alliances' Local Sustainability Division staff to collect, validate, and disseminate a clear, factual report that helps inform the Congress, Agency staff, partner organizations, and the general public about the activities of the PVO community. We hope you find it a useful resource.

Ministers to the physical, emotional, and spiritual needs of people in Ghana and throughout the world. A Christian faith-based organization, ASI provides free medical and dental clinics to the poor and needy and supports medical activities—providing medical supplies, medicine, and dental care items—and health education workshops that address topics such as nutrition, breast cancer awareness, maternal and child care, and HIV/AIDS and sexually transmitted diseases. The organization also supports educational projects, providing school supplies to female children (a traditionally under-schooled group in much of Africa) and books to help establish libraries. ASI's longer-term goal is to build and provide funding for a 250-bed medical center in the village of Ningo, Ghana.

Combines the groundbreaking work of making landowners of the rural poor with holistic community development in four countries in Central America and in Mexico. Through Agros International's development model of training, community organizing, enterprise development, and land ownership, families become landowners and move from subsistence farming to producing as many as three harvests annually. Under the Agros model, every family gains housing and clean water and every child has access to primary education. Nearly all of the loans provided through the organization's women's microcredit project are repaid on time.

Works to give a hand up, not a handout, to people who need clean water. ACI licenses inexpensive water purification technology to local entrepreneurs who manufacture, sell, and maintain the purification systems. ACI systems meet World Health Organization standards, have no moving parts, require no power for operation, and are made with local materials. A simple system provides potable water for a family and will last for 10 years. The organization seeks to engage women as business owners and supports new businesses with construction manuals, health and hygiene curriculums, and simple accounting and marketing ideas. ACI distributes its water purification systems through a core staff, churches and mission groups, medical personnel, and organizations such as the Friends of the Peace Corps, Men of Mission, and Habitat for Humanity.

Works to limit the suffering that HIV/AIDS causes children and their families by providing care, treatment, support services, resources, referrals, prevention, and education. Since 1987, CAF has provided HIV/AIDS prevention and education resources and tangible assistance to HIV-impacted children, their families, and care providers. Financial assistance supports efforts such as vocational training and school scholarships that focus on HIV-impacted and AIDS-orphaned children. CAF also provides technical and capacity-building assistance to existing and start-up providers that serve HIV-impacted children and their families. Care, treatment, and prevention programs focusing on children and families are ongoing in Uganda and Zambia.

Fights acute and chronic malnutrition through early detection and treatment in Leogane, Haiti. CNP Haiti's work is implemented by 34 Haitian women who are trained as community nutrition workers. Children under 5 years of age are treated with Plumpy'Nut, a ready-to-use therapeutic food, through outpatient programs that allow the children to be treated in the security of their own homes. The organization also enrolls caregivers in its Positive Deviance Hearth program, where they learn to create balanced, nutritionally sound meals for their families. CNP Haiti's Women's Groups and Community Health Committees meet regularly to address village health issues, and the organization's safe water and sanitation projects provide bio-sand filters and latrines to prevent the spread of cholera and other waterborne diseases.

Empowers health workers with decision-support resources. D-tree International develops clinical algorithms (decision trees) that run on cell phones and makes them available to health workers in low-income countries. Every decision a health worker in a developing country makes can save a life—or shorten it. However, in parts of the world where the doctor-patient ratio is 1 to 50,000, critical health care decisions are often made by providers with limited medical training. With D-tree's innovative mobile technology, health workers have access to step-by-step protocols for accurately diagnosing and treating patients, reducing errors and dramatically improving outcomes. D-tree seeks to improve the lives of patients in developing countries one decision at a time.

Assists rural Nicaraguan communities to improve their living standards through sustainable development in the areas of clean water, sanitation, reforestation, and health education. One-third of Nicaragua's rural communities lack access to clean drinking water. Globally, 1.8 million children die annually because of illnesses linked to consumption of polluted water. Women and girls shoulder the burden of collecting water for household needs, spending hours daily carrying 40-pound buckets of water for miles. Access to clean drinking water dramatically improves family living standards, reducing disease and child mortality, freeing girls' and women's time, and improving school attendance and performance.

WEB: www.foodsresourcebank.org

Alleviates hunger in some of the world's poorest communities by providing resources to empower people to feed themselves. FRB does not ship grain or food overseas; instead, the organization offers people dignity by giving them a hand up instead of a handout, thus breaking the cycle of dependency. As a Christian, nongovernmental, humanitarian organization, FRB is committed to providing sustainable food security in the developing world through small-scale agricultural interventions. Programs focus on education and the introduction of no-till alternatives, conservation, improved seeds and livestock, market access, water reclamation, food storage, and other techniques that allow people to feed their families, send their children to school, and improve the quality of life at home and in their communities. The organization's strategic goal is to engage the grassroots U.S. agricultural community in efforts to solve the problem of hunger worldwide.

Designs and distributes labor-saving and income-generating agricultural devices to improve life in rural communities. FBP provides technical training to local entrepreneurs, giving them the ability to manufacture FBP-designed machines that employ appropriate technologies to add value at the local level. Entrepreneurs work with kits (fiberglass molds, metal parts) to manufacture the Universal Nut Sheller, a simple, inexpensive, and portable machine that allows people to shell groundnuts (peanuts) and add value to various edible nuts and coffee beans, shea nuts, and jatropa and neem seeds, which are important cash crops. The devices free people, particularly women, from the time-consuming task of hand shelling. The organization's Rocker Water Pump is another appropriate technology that allows a user to draw water for irrigation using a simple rocking motion. FBP also provides training to help recipients operate and maintain the machines.

Creates safe water supplies and sanitation and hygiene-related facilities for rural villages and schools in developing countries. Global Water believes the lack of safe drinking water and sanitation facilities is the root cause of hunger, disease, and poverty throughout the developing world. The organization's water projects have an immediate and life-changing impact, particularly for women and children who, in rural areas of developing countries, have the primary responsibility for gathering water for the family every day of their lives. Successful projects leverage water and sanitation activities to foster sustainable socioeconomic development in the communities where the organization works.

Reduces water-related illness and death in developing countries by building self-sustaining projects that make safe drinking water accessible to the poor and empowers local churches to bring physical, social, and spiritual healing to their communities. The communities targeted by Healing Waters are often overlooked for aid because they have municipal water systems in place. Unfortunately, many of these systems deliver contaminated water, and commercially bottled water is a luxury the poor cannot afford. Attributes of the organization's water programs include the following: (1) water treatment technology; (2) health and hygiene education; and (3) a basic business model to ensure sustainable water system operations.

Provides wheelchairs and other mobility aids to the disabled poor in developing countries. Hope Haven's innovative, volunteer-intensive, cost-effective program collects discarded wheelchairs and refurbishes and delivers them to poor people in 106 countries.

Supplying wheelchairs is a critical first step to empowering some of the world's most dependent citizens, as mobility provides access to education, job training, and employment. Hope Haven also manufactures new pediatric wheelchairs (in Antigua, Guatemala; and Ireton, Iowa) for severely disabled children, since the current supply of children's wheelchairs doesn't meet the overwhelming need. The organization also spearheads a global network of individuals, relief agencies, and government leaders committed to the needs of the estimated 65 million disabled people worldwide. Hope Haven's international activities build on the organization's 47-year history of helping people with disabilities in Iowa and Minnesota unleash their potential.

Promotes quality journalism worldwide in the belief that independent, vigorous media are crucial in improving the human condition. ICFJ's work around the world—i.e., providing journalistic, media management, and technical expertise as well as information and support services—is critical to the development of effective, independent media organizations that are ethically grounded and financially stable. ICFJ also assists U.S. media organizations in providing better coverage of international issues that are too often ignored, from the global economy to immigration, and in fostering better connections among U.S. journalists and their counterparts abroad. Training for ethnic and non-English-language reporters in the United States has become a strong focus for ICFJ, given the growing influence of these journalists. ICFJ offers fellowships, facilitates exchanges, provides a range of consulting services, and has conducted training programs for some 70,000 journalists in 180 countries.

Improves the lives of the rural poor in developing nations through agricultural and economic development. iDE's guiding principle is that the rural poor are natural entrepreneurs who, if given the opportunity, will invest their limited resources to ensure their families' food supply and generate income. iDE empowers rural farmers to pull themselves out of poverty by making available quality inputs, training, affordable technologies, capital, and access to markets. Simple, low-cost water technologies increase income generation by allowing farmers to cultivate high-value, labor-intensive crops. These technologies have enabled families to become more efficient agricultural producers, generally doubling their net annual income in the first year. iDE's efforts have helped some 17 million people escape poverty.

Partners with community-based organizations around the world, across borders of faith, culture, and economic circumstance, to support children, women, and youth. IPM provides its partner organizations with seed funding, technical assistance, and opportunities for local and international partnerships. IPM has regional staff in El Salvador, India, and Kenya to facilitate work with its partners. In addition, IPM's Immersion Experience Program provides 7- to 12-day immersion opportunities with partners in the countries where they work. During these trips, participants spend time sharing and learning about the partner's work and its respective challenges and successes.

Responds to the unmet needs of poor people by providing funds, food, technical assistance, and medical supplies to improve nutrition, health care, education, and agriculture. IPHD provides assistance to African countries, reaching 255,000 children daily in Guinea-Bissau and the Republic of Congo with school meals. IPHD is improving farm production in the Republic of Congo with better varieties of corn, beans, and other products. IPHD manages programs to prevent trafficking of children in Guinea-Bissau and the Central African Republic. The organization also supports effort to develop school and village water systems and implements malaria prevention and school infrastructure programs. In the Republic of Congo, IPHD runs a number of refugee programs in conjunction with U.N. agencies.

Improves lives and livelihoods through inclusion, engagement, and empowerment. IRD builds lasting relationships and strengthens its beneficiaries' capabilities so they can create sustainable change and direct their own development. These principles are at the core of IRD's mission to reduce the suffering of the world's most vulnerable groups and provide the tools and resources needed to increase their self-sufficiency. IRD's cost-effective programs provide assistance to the world's most vulnerable people in seven key service areas: building infrastructure, civil society, conflict mitigation, emergency response, acquisitions and logistics, food and agriculture, and health and hygiene.

Alleviates human suffering by providing health services and critical assistance to victims of disaster, poverty, and neglect. IRT focuses on four core areas: domestic and international disaster relief, medical training, surgical outreach, and health promotion. Teams of volunteer specialists perform most of the program activities. Medical relief teams augment local health care professionals during natural disasters and other crises, medical training teams train local instructors in emergency medicine and obstetrical and neonatal care, and surgical teams perform surgery in remote, impoverished areas where specialists do not practice. IRT construction teams repair homes damaged by natural disasters. Rather than establish field offices, IRT works with local agencies to build effectiveness and capacity. IRT has provided assistance to 65 countries during its 24-year history.

Restores and protects water-dependent ecosystems and the services they provide to sustain and enrich human life. NHI is a California nonprofit public interest and conservation advocacy organization founded in 1989. NHI works in watersheds worldwide that have been significantly altered and where intact aquatic systems of exceptional ecological value are subject to imminent development pressure. NHI helps to show how changing water management policies to optimize water usage can lead to beneficial impacts, as measured in both economic value and in healthy conditions, for all a watershed's inhabitants. NHI works with an array of governmental and nongovernmental partners and provides expertise through five major practice areas: (1) public policy research and advocacy; (2) scientific research, technical investigations, and predictive modeling; (3) legal and litigation services; (4) community education and organizing; and (5) restoration planning and implementation.

Combats malnutrition in Afghanistan, especially among rural women and children, whose mortality rates are among the highest in the world. To address widespread malnutrition, which is synonymous with protein deficiency, NEI is introducing the protein-rich soybean, which has not been cultivated in Afghanistan, as a possible solution. NEI is supported and run by volunteers who work full time in various professional fields and who donate their time and expertise to bring proper nutrition to impoverished communities in Afghanistan.

Provides a preferential health care option for the poor. By establishing long-term relationships with sister organizations based in settings of poverty, PIH strives to achieve two overarching goals: bring the benefits of modern medical science to those most in need of them and serve as an antidote to despair. PIH draws on the resources of the world's leading medical and academic institutions and on the lived experience of the world's poorest and sickest communities. PIH's mission is both medical and moral; it is based on solidarity rather than charity alone. When the organization's patients are ill and have no access to care, PIH's team of health professionals, scholars, and activists will do whatever it takes to make them well.

Encourages people to make choices that lead to better health, human rights, and sustainable development. Working with local partners worldwide, PCI-Media Impact produces carefully researched and culturally sensitive radio and television programs, often using serial dramas, helping people to make choices that improve their health and educational prospects. By combining the power of storytelling with the reach of broadcast media, PCI-Media Impact's programs capture the dynamics of everyday life and model behaviors that promote family health, stable communities, and a sustainable environment. PCI-Media Impact's dramas address a wide range of issues, including HIV/AIDS prevention, alcohol and drug abuse, literacy, violence, and gender equality.

Protects ecosystems and the people and wildlife that depend on them by transforming land-use practices, business practices, and consumer behavior. The Rainforest Alliance awards a third-party certification to farms, forests, and forest and agricultural products that are managed or produced according to its rigorous standards for environmental and social sustainability. The organization works to create market linkages between certified producers and international buyers to make certification an economically viable alternative to deforestation. The Rainforest Alliance promotes sustainable tourism by educating key stakeholders, by providing technical support to entrepreneurs implementing sustainable practices, and by building regional and international consensus around sustainable tourism.

Works to end child slavery in Haiti in our lifetimes. "Restavek" is a form of modern-day slavery that affects one in every 15 Haitian children. Restavek children are often given to relatives or strangers to perform menial tasks for no pay. RFF's comprehensive strategy to end this practice includes meeting the long-term needs of restavek children through effective child advocacy, establishing transitional homes for children who suffer the worst forms of abuse, working with churches and pastors (i.e., culturally significant leaders) to change societal attitudes toward restavek, establishing community centers to enhance economic empowerment for children and adults, connecting government agencies with the people through partnerships with churches, and using effective mass media campaigns to provide information on justice issues and family planning. RFF seeks to undermine the social acceptance of, and economic need for, restavek.

Restores economic livelihoods in communities that have been devastated by conflict. ROP, a nonprofit, humanitarian organization, focuses on post-conflict countries and works to remove the remnants of war and implement programs that promote economic and social revitalization in rural communities. The organization supports positive policy change at the government level and field extension activities that allow markets to work. ROP's economic livelihood programs are value chain based, driven by market demands, and seek to bring substantial income gains to large numbers of people. ROP commits to working in developing countries for an extended period. ROP develops a long-term plan in conjunction with key stakeholders and follows on with programming to implement that long-term plan. ROP programs are typically designed to have a measurable, sustainable impact from onset.

Empowers the Honduran medical community to provide medical and dental care to impoverished citizens in the communities where they reside. SATC is working alongside its nongovernmental organization partner, Manos Amigas, to serve the indigenous people of the Copan region of Honduras. SATC gathers both financial and in-kind resources to build and equip a dental/medical clinic in the town of La Entrada. SATC works to ensure that the clinic has a dependable supply of medications and is staffed with Honduran medical and dental health care practitioners. The clinic offers a diversified and multidisciplinary approach to diagnose, treat, educate, and care for the people it serves. SATC's ultimate goals are to give patients hope, enable families to break out of cycles of poverty and illness, and invigorate community spirit.

Protects tropical forests. TFF was formed in 1990 as a result of a Smithsonian Institution workshop that brought together leaders of industry, science, and conservation. TFF promotes sustainable tropical forest management by gathering and disseminating information about the benefits of proper management. TFF identified a unique opportunity to engage the tropical timber industry in on-the-ground instruction more than 20 years ago and continues teaching and demonstrating sustainable forest management principles through the application of Reduced Impact Logging (RIL) practices. TFF's RIL programs are regional and located in all of the major tropical timber-producing areas of the world: the Amazon, both in Brazil and Guyana; Indonesia and the Asian Pacific; and the Congo Basin.

Equips leaders to mobilize communities to care for their own children with their own resources. VCI promotes community involvement and ownership, recognizing that communities that run programs are more likely to own and sustain them over time. VCI also promotes indigenous leadership and reliance on community resources. These core principles create program standards that are not likely to create dependence on Western aid. The organization serves individuals from a number of faith traditions and seeks to enlist members and leaders of various faiths as volunteers. VCI chapters initiate development programming with the outcomes they want for their orphans and vulnerable children clearly defined. The organization evaluates program success by assessing the quality of outcomes achieved rather than the quantity of services provided.

Gives impoverished women in rural East Africa the tools they need to climb out of poverty. The WMI loan program provides a structured environment where women receive business training, financial literacy mentoring, and support from a village-level community-based organization (CBO) while participating in four consecutive 6-month loan rounds at increasing borrowing limits (from $50 to $250). After 24-months, the women graduate from the CBO program to become commercial bank customers. WMI guarantees the client's first bank loan, and after a year, the client graduates to independent borrowing, financial autonomy, and the formal economy. Funds repaid to the CBO by the transitioning borrowers are recycled to provide new loans to first-time borrowers. Interest on the CBO-issued loans covers all operating expenses of the village loan hubs.

Offers community-based programming to high-needs young people and their families. YAP was founded in 1975 and currently works in 18 U.S. states, providing child welfare, juvenile justice, behavioral health, autism, developmental disability, and reentry programs that strengthen communities by helping challenged youths and families lead healthy, safe, and productive lives. The organization uses a strength-based approach and seeks to foster the availability of community-based services abroad by advocating for, working with, and helping support sister agencies in Guatemala and Sierra Leone, an affiliate in Ireland, and the International Youth Advocacy Federation.

ZIDISHA, INC.

Mrs. Julia Kurnia, Director

21900 Muirfield Circle, Suite 392
Sterling, VA 20164
TEL: (202) 492-6446
EMAIL: julia@zidisha.org
WEB: www.zidisha.org

Connects individual lenders directly with microfinance borrowers in low-income countries. Zidisha lowers the cost of microfinance loans by allowing entrepreneurs in developing countries to raise capital via a web platform that eliminates intermediaries and allows individual lenders and borrowers worldwide to interact directly. Zidisha's direct peer-to-peer lending model reduces the administrative cost of loans by automating and outsourcing to borrowers and lenders many of the record-keeping and credit-screening functions traditionally performed manually by local microfinance institutions. As a result, the average Zidisha borrower pays about 8 percent in annual interest and fees, including interest paid to lenders. The average interest rate for microfinance loans in developing countries is over 30 percent.

ZOE

Mr. Michael Hart, CEO

23018 Oak Street
Santa Clarita, CA 91321
TEL: (661) 255-7963
FAX: (661) 254-9305

Cares for orphans, combats child trafficking, and shares God's love. ZOE works actively to rescue children from human trafficking and provides restorative care to both rescued children and children at high risk of being trafficked. Mobile teams provide community education presentations to prevent further occurrences of this atrocity. Zoe provides the following services to the children it serves: safe housing, meals, clothing, medical care, education, and spiritual care. These services are provided in a family setting. ZOE also provides humanitarian assistance and leadership training.

ZOOLOGICAL SOCIETY OF MILWAUKEE COUNTY ZSM

Dr. Robert Davis, CEO and President

Conserves wildlife and endangered species, educates people about the importance of wildlife and the environment, and supports the Milwaukee County Zoo. Through its Bonobo and Congo Biodiversity Initiative (BCBI), ZSM studies and ensures the survival of the bonobo—an endangered great ape—in the Salonga National Park in the Democratic Republic of the Congo. The BCBI program builds the capacity of the national park through anti-poaching training and support; studies and surveys bonobo and other wildlife populations; and supports communities through primary school education and adult literacy classes.

WEB: www.actioncontrelafaim.org

Fights against hunger and defends the fundamental rights of populations in difficulty. Born in the context of the Afghan crisis and emergency response for Afghan refugees who fled to Pakistan in 1979, ACF, a humanitarian, voluntary, and professional nongovernmental organization, was created by a group of French intellectuals. ACF's mission is to intervene in the field to save lives and preserve and restore food security for populations. Working in conjunction with the people it serves, ACF provides the material and human resources necessary to address needs, relieve human suffering, and safeguard human dignity. ACF contributes to the protection of populations by taking action and testifying.

ACTIONAID INTERNATIONAL

Fights poverty worldwide. Formed in 1972, ActionAid is an international development agency that last year helped more than 13 million of the world's poorest people in more than 40 countries. ActionAid is owned by national affiliates working with partners in Africa, Asia, the Americas, and Europe. In December 2003, the organization established a secretariat in Johannesburg, South Africa. ActionAid works with local partners, helping poor women and men gain their rights to food, education, human security, just and democratic governance, and health care. The organization's 350,000 supporters share its commitment, providing 70 percent of its income. ActionAid's partners range from small community groups to international networks, and its national and international campaigns highlight issues that affect poor people and influence the way that governments and international institutions work.

AGENCE D'AIDE À LA COOPÉRATION TECHNIQUE ET AU DÉVELOPPEMENT ACTED

Supports vulnerable populations affected by wars, natural disasters, and economic and social crises and assists them in building a better future, thus contributing to the Millennium Development Goals. ACTED's interventions rely on the highest standards of relevance, compliance, and accountability. The organization promotes a multidisciplinary approach that is both global and local and adapted to each context, thus establishing a link between emergency, rehabilitation, and development. ACTED implements around 300 programs per year in more than 30 countries in Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Caribbean, and the Middle East, covering emergency relief and assistance, WASH (water, sanitation, and hygiene), agriculture and livelihoods, rehabilitation of infrastructure, education and training, economic development and microfinance, promotion of gender equality, local governance, environmental sustainability, culture, and heritage.

WEB: www.avsf.org

Provides professional assistance to rural farmers threatened by exclusion in southern countries. AVSF works to ensure that rural farming is economically viable, ecologically sustainable, and socially fair, as agriculture not only provides sustenance and livelihoods but also contributes to local democracy and to the vitality of rural areas. AVSF works through more than 80 programs in 18 countries, helping small farmers' associations protect production systems, improve productivity, manage resources, consolidate trade organizations, and bring products to local and international markets. Initiatives contribute to economic growth by providing employment in rural areas, increase health and food security, and facilitate sustainable management of natural resources. AVSF also advocates for greater justice in the international sphere and includes agriculturalists in its efforts to change policies and practices that breed poverty and injustice.

ASSOCIATION FOR AID AND RELIEF, JAPAN

FAX: (1-416) 369-0294
EMAIL: info@cpar.ca
WEB: www.cpar.ca

Builds healthy and sustainable communities in Africa. For more than 25 years, CPAR has been targeting some of the most vulnerable rural areas of Ethiopia, Malawi, Tanzania, and northern Uganda with important interventions related to food security, water and sanitation, and access to primary health services. CPAR's work is guided by the underlying belief that everything is connected: specifically, that health is determined not only by the existence of health care services but also by social, economic, and environmental factors. Therefore, CPAR's work not only involves direct health interventions—ensuring a continuum of care between clinic and community—but also addresses the determinants of health, which include access to clean water, adequate food, and a safe and healthy environment. All CPAR projects are designed to be sustainable, ensuring that benefits continue to accrue long after CPAR's direct involvement.

CARITAS SWITZERLAND CACH

Mr. Hugo Fasel, Director

Loewenstrasse 3

EMAIL: cesvi@cesvi.org
WEB: www.cesvi.org

Works for global solidarity. Established in 1985 as a secular, independent association, CESVI is guided by the principle of human solidarity and the ideal of social justice. These values underpin the organization's humanitarian and development work and affirm its commitment to universal human rights. CESVI's name is derived from the Italian "cooperazione e sviluppo" (cooperation and development), words that convey the organization's philosophy and reflect the leading role played by project beneficiaries. Main activities include the emergency supply of medical equipment and materials and the distribution of food and nonfood items. The organization rehabilitates public infrastructure—schools, hospitals, water wells, water distribution systems—and houses. CESVI's development activities include HIV/AIDS prevention, agricultural promotion, support for business, malaria and dengue fever prevention, hospital improvements, and food security.

CHILDSLIFE INTERNATIONAL, STICHTING

Ms. Patricia L. Korver-Kicak, Executive Director

Works to build lasting peace in partnership with people living and working in conflict or post-conflict situations. Violent conflict is a reality affecting millions of people across the globe. CORD believes these people hold the keys to peace, and the organization works alongside them to make lasting peace a reality. Conflict breaks up families and communities and disrupts and destroys lives, livelihoods, societies, and economies. CORD forms long-term partnerships that help build the ability of communities, organizations, and governments in Africa and Southeast Asia to direct their own development toward a peaceful future.

Supports projects that provide fortified foods to large populations—through market channels where feasible and through public-sector delivery systems when markets fail. GAIN is a Swiss foundation that mobilizes public-private partnerships and provides financial and technical support to deliver nutritious foods to people most at risk of malnutrition. The organization was created in 2002 at a Special Session of the U.N. General Assembly on Children. GAIN is delivering improved nutrition to an estimated 273 million people, half of whom are women and children, in more than 25 countries. GAIN's Business Alliance unites food producers and is a global focal point for private-sector strategies against undernutrition in Africa, Asia, and Latin America and the Caribbean. More nutritious food improves individual productivity and helps reduce poverty.

Assists divided and conflicted societies to build lasting peace. Interpeace, an international peace-building organization based in Switzerland, was created as a U.N. pilot project, the War-torn Societies Project, in 1994. Interpeace became an independent nongovernmental organization (NGO) in 2000 and remains a close partner of the United Nations. The organization can implement Interpeace-style programming through the United Nations via the Joint Programme Unit for UN/Interpeace Initiatives or as an NGO. The organization's success is based on its belief in local ownership and local capacities. Interpeace works with carefully formed local teams that engage all sectors of a society to identify major challenges, develop consensus-driven solutions, and strengthen the capacity to manage conflict in nonviolent ways. Currently, Interpeace has programs in Africa, Central America, the Middle East, and Southeast Asia.

Supports and strengthens the protective environment for children who, as a result of conflict, live with a combination of insecurity, poverty, and exclusion. WCUK works with street children, child-headed households, children conscripted into armed groups, disabled children, and children in prison as well as with marginalized youths up to the age of 24. The organization focuses on long-term, sustainable, community-based projects and works independently or in partnership with other agencies to provide practical and effective resolutions. WCUK has funded a host of nongovernmental organizations and projects around the world. WCUK was founded in response to the plight of children caught in the conflict in the former Yugoslavia, and the organization looks forward to a world in which the lives of children are no longer torn apart by war.

Empowers children and young people to overcome the challenges of living with, and recovering from, conflict. WCC focuses on three issues that significantly shape the lives of children and young people: (1) education—school reconstruction, teacher training, literacy, numeracy, accelerated learning, and student safety; 2) justice—direct legal representation as well as training and sensitization on the rights of women and children; and (3) livelihoods—vocational skills training, food security, and microfinance, including small-business management assistance. WCC incorporates the crosscutting themes of gender, conflict sensitivity, and child protection into its programming. In addition, the organization works to develop strong, respectful partnerships with local communities and organizations. By incorporating participatory methodologies and building the capacity of local partners, WCC is able to ensure the delivery of appropriate, sustainable, and effective development projects.

Provides education and training for refugees and people affected by conflict in Kenya, Sudan, South Sudan, and Uganda. WTI operates directly in Sudan and South Sudan through staff in Khartoum and Juba. The organization provides English-language training for schoolteachers and other professionals who need English to deliver lessons and other services. WTI also provides scholarships at vocational and secondary schools and tertiary education colleges in Africa and the United Kingdom to outstanding young people who are affected by conflict and who are—or have the potential to become—involved in post-conflict reconstruction. WTI provides similar programming and opportunities in Kenya and Uganda through its Associate Trusts.

Addresses gender injustices on issues relating to the environmental, socioeconomic, and political rights of women and youth in society. WEP's thematic areas of operation encompass environment and governance and focus on human settlement, urbanization, climate change, disaster risk reduction, energy, water and sanitation, natural resources, women in democratic processes, and youth mentoring. WEP was founded in 1997 by a group of women working at the grassroots level and has strived to live up to its vision of partnering with all program stakeholders, including governments, international nongovernmental organizations, donors, and bilateral agencies. The organization holds special consultative status with the U.N. Economic and Social Council.

WOMEN FOR WATER PARTNERSHIP WfWP

EMAIL: secretariat@womenforwater.org
WEB: www.womenforwater.org

Bridges the gap between internationally accepted principles for sustainable development and practice in water management and water and sanitation services. WfWP supports women's social and economic development by meeting basic water and sanitation needs. The organization coordinates regional working conferences that foster capacity development; builds functional partnerships around women's initiatives; enables women to create tailor-made solutions to address their most pressing needs, ensuring that solutions are appropriate and sustainable; and gives them a voice to influence policy and participate in decision making at all levels. WfWP addresses empowerment in a holistic manner, supporting women's organizations to grow to their full potential by altering the mindset to accept women as partners instead of target groups for development. WfWP administers grant portfolios, including a unique, demand-driven small-grants system that provides seed funds for proposal development.

Builds the capacity of individuals, institutions, and governments throughout Africa, Asia, and the Americas. WUSC is a Canada-based nongovernmental organization (NGO) focused on improving human development through education, training, capacity building, and institution strengthening. With more than three decades of experience in international development, WUSC is recognized as one of Canada's leading NGOs in the design, implementation, and management of education, capacity-building, and development projects. WUSC is unique among Canadian development organizations because of its ability to link Canada's universities and colleges with overseas development and capacity-building activities. Reaching across Canada, WUSC's network includes more than 50 post-secondary institutions, 80 local committees (campus-based groups), and individual alumni to connect members and leaders to development initiatives.

COOPERATIVE DEVELOPMENT ORGANIZATIONS

REGISTRY

CDOs as part of the larger PVO community will be listed in the U.S. PVO Registry. In order to be listed in the Registry as a CDO, the CDO must comply with the annual documentation requirements in the Code of Federal Regulations, Title 22, Part 203. The following CDOs are included in the U.S. PVO Registry.

Descriptions of voluntary foreign aid activities were provided by USAID-registered organizations.

Fosters broad-based economic growth, raises living standards, and creates vibrant communities. ACDI/VOCA's technical and management assistance enables organizations—whether enterprises, financial institutions, or cooperatives—to manage and finance themselves and succeed in the global economy. Areas of expertise include food security, agribusiness, enterprise development, financial services, and community development. Long known for its work in the areas of agricultural development and food security, ACDI/VOCA has gained prominence for value chain approaches to enterprise development and poverty reduction, establishment of sustainable financial institutions, and participatory community strengthening, especially in conflict-affected areas. ACDI/VOCA implements approximately 90 projects in 40 countries on behalf of public, private, and multilateral funders.

Stimulates long-lasting positive change in low- and moderate-income communities around the world, helping them to improve their social, economic, and environmental conditions. Using a participatory, demand-driven approach, Global Communities has worked in 115 countries since 1952, providing innovative development assistance that promotes local economic development and fosters grassroots community participation. Using businesslike approaches and democratic principles, Global Communities helps bolster the capacity of microenterprises, governments, cooperatives, and nongovernmental organizations to tackle social, environmental, and infrastructural issues on their own, while strengthening community participation and cohesion. Global Communities applies these principles effectively in many contexts, such as post-conflict emergency recovery and reconstruction, natural disaster response, mitigation of the HIV/AIDS pandemic, and focused assistance for low-income artisans.
