Assessor Protocol Booklet

Pilot Test – February 2020

Establish Rapport, Obtain Participant Consent, and Assign Code

- Establish rapport by greeting the teacher warmly, exchanging pleasantries, and thanking them for their time.
- Give the teacher a copy of the Teacher Consent form. Read it aloud to the teacher.
- If the teacher consents to participate and signs the form, assign the teacher a temporary identification code (i.e. your initials and the number of teachers you have interviewed so far, e.g. KH02) and write it in the box below.
- Write the same code on the front of a copy of the Teacher Booklet for Silent Reading and Writing Tasks. Keep the booklet in your possession until it is time for those tasks.
- If the Silent Reading and Writing Tasks will be administered in a group, write the same code on on a separate piece of paper and give it to the teacher to keep until the time of the group-administered tasks.

🕐 Set the timer for 2 minutes.

Weetegese? Tandika.

Start the timer when the teacher starts talking. Follow along on your score sheet and tick all the items that the teacher mentions from the list. Stay quiet, except if the teacher hesitates for 10 seconds, say: Osobola okumbuulira buli kintu kyonna ky'olaba mu kifaananyi kino.

If the teacher exhausts their initial description before the timer runs out, say: Osobola okwefumiitiriza ku mbeera y'obulamu bw'abantu abali kifaananyi kino?

Early stop rule: If the teacher does not say anything at all for 20 seconds, even after the second prompt, say: Kale, weebale. Discontinue this task, check the box at the bottom of the task, and continue to the next task.

If the timer runs out before the teacher finishes speaking, say: Kale, weebale. If the teacher is almost finished, you may let them finish; you do not have to interrupt them. Either way, tick the final item mentioned when the timer ran out; do not count any items mentioned after the end of the timer.

At the end of the timed portion, tick the one option under the Utterances Description section of your score sheet that best describes the overall response pattern used by the teacher.
